Sunday morning, the city and county woke up to see a white world. Angie Amey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Amey, sits atop a pumpkin and enjoys the beauty of the scenerv.

Kent Trial Jury Selection Gets Under Way

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Jury selection for the trial of eight former Ohio National Guard members accused of civil rights violations in the campus gunfire that killed four and wounded nine students four years ago begins today in U.S. District Court. Court officials summoned 125 prospective jurors to appear this morning and said more would be called if the venire is exhausted before a jury is seated.

Chief Judge Frank J. Battisti, presiding over the Kent State trial, clamped the lid on pretrial speculation by ordering attorneys and principals not to discuss the case with reporters. The trial could last several weeks. Both government and defense have lists of 150 potential witnesses for each side. Attorneys indicated they did not expect to call all of them. One attorney estimated the total number of witnesses called to the stand would number about 100.

After nearly three months investigating the Kent State tragedy, a federal grand jury indicted the eight former guardsmen last March 29.

The indictment charged they violated the civil rights of the 13 students killed or wounded in a 13-second gunfire burst May 4, 1970, during a confrontation with demonstrators protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The indictment named Lawrence A. Shafer, 28, and James D. McGee, 27, both of Ravenna, Ohio; William E. Perkins, 28, Canton, Ohio; James E.

Pierce, 29, Amelia Island, Fla.; Ralph W. Zoller, 27, Mantua, Ohio; Barry W. Morris, 29, Kent, Ohio; Mathew J. McManus, 28, West Salem, Ohio, and Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City, Ohio. These men were charged with willfully assaulting and intimidating demonstrators by firing weapons in their direction and violating their constitutional rights.

Convictions could bring a $1,000 fine and prison terms up to life.

The Ohio National Guard went into Kent State May 2, 1970, on order of former Gov. James A. Rhodes. The student antiwar demonstration had resulted in the burning of the Army Reserve Training Corps building on the state school's campus.

Rhodes testified to the grand jury, which conducted the fourth official inquiry into the shootings.

A Presidential commission, a state grand jury called by Rhodes and the Federal Bureau of Investigation also investigated.

The commission disputed claims guardsmen fired in self-defense and called the shootings "unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable."

The state grand jury cleared the guardsmen, saying it found they fired because they had reason to believe their lives were in danger from rock-throwing demonstrators.

The state jury indicted 25 persons, including Kent State students and former students, but the state dropped most of the cases more than a year later.

President Defends Rocky Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is standing by his nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller, declaring, "I'm still convinced he would make a good vice president."

Ford, fielding questions from five newsmen aboard Air Force One late Saturday, was asked whether any conservative Republicans had urged him to withdraw the increasingly controversial nomination.

"I wouldn't say anybody seriously," the President responded, implying that such advice had been received.

Standing in shirtsleeves in the aisle of the plane as it brought him home from a campaign trip to Louisville, Ky., Ford held what amounted to an informal news conference.

Ford said he expected Rockefeller's nomination to be confirmed before the President's planned trip to Japan next month. This would seem to be out of the question since Ford tentatively plans to leave the country Nov. 17 and Congress does not return from its election recess until the following day.

Meanwhile, Rockefeller was described by a prominent Senate Democrat as "a man who has great experience, tremendous ability."

The comment came from Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, who said in an interview Sunday on the CBS program

"Face the Nation" that he still planned to vote for Rockefeller's confirmation despite the recent financial disclosures.

Byrd said, however, that he was glad that the Senate would not be voting immediately on the nomination because "there are many questions that remain to be answered." He said the Rockefeller gifts and loans raise a more serious question than the back taxes.

In New York Sunday, Rockefeller said through spokesman Hugh Morrow that he gave Henry A. Kissinger $50,000 to enable Kissinger to join the Nixon administration as head of the National Security Council.

And, Rockefeller was quoted in an interview in Time magazine as saying that Kissinger was concerned about earning less in Washington than he had been, because "he had just got divorced and had responsibilities to his children and to his former wife."

"I urged him to take the job. He didn't want it. Okay, so I helped him out."

"He put the money in trust for his children. What's more human than that," Rockefeller said.

In the interview, Rockefeller described the gifts he gave to former associates and friends as "a great American tradition."

Dean Still On Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — With four tapes down and three to go, John W. Dean III is returning to the witness stand to relate what happened in the White House after he told then-President Richard M. Nixon about the Watergate cancer growing on the presidency.

The prosecution in the Watergate cover-up trial was expected to finish with Dean today after playing the remaining three White House tapes, in which his voice was recorded along with Nixon's.

Lawyers for all five defendants, John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian, then will have a chance individually to question Dean, the first government witness who has been on the stand since last Wednesday.

Meanwhile, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski said in a television interview Sunday that the entire story of Watergate will come out during the trial.

"Through the evidence at the (cover-up) trial, you're going to have the story of Watergate," Jaworski said on the NBC program "Meet the Press."

The last tape played for the jury in the conspiracy case was of the conversation Dean had with Nixon the morning of March 21, 1974. In that talk, Dean told Nixon that demands by the Watergate defendants might cost $1 million.

Later that day, in the next tape to be played, Nixon conferred with Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean. Their discussion included talk of a pardon for Watergate figure E. Howard Hunt Jr., who had pressed the most persistent money demands.

The next tape was recorded the following day when Nixon, Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean and Mitchell discussed strategy for the coming Senate Watergate committee hearings and the complicity of administration and re-election committee officials in the break-in and cover-up.

There had been several previous versions of the March 22 conversation.

The White House transcripts released last April had Nixon saying flexibility was necessary "in order to get off the coverup line."

The House Judiciary Committee,

during its impeachment inquiry, issued its own transcript, containing 16 pages of dialogue not included by the White House.

In the House document, Nixon is quoted as saying "I don't give a shit what happens. I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the 5th Amendment, cover-up or anything else, if it'll save it — save the plan."

The reference to the plan concerned the stance the White House would take to the Senate hearings.

In his interview, Jaworski, who leaves office Friday, also said that he thought Nixon was guilty of "obstruction of justice," and, when asked whether he agreed with President Ford's reasons for granting Nixon a pardon, he snapped "no."

Ford Takes Truman-Like Stance

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford has been told by close associates that he sounds like a Harry S. Truman on the campaign trail. And if Ford hasn't given Democrats much hell yet, he's trying.

Facing heavy odds in attempting to resist an erosion of Republican strength in Congress, Ford is using more strident, more Truman-like rhetoric as the campaign progresses.

Apparently by design, Ford became increasingly partisan last week as he jetted into seven states on behalf of Republican candidates. The change in approach produced a presidential decision Saturday to abandon prepared texts and, as he put it, "talk heart-to-heart, straight-to-straight."

Ford seemingly wanted to say, "straight from the shoulder," but couldn't remember the cliché soon enough — one of the perils of impromptu speechmaking.

But without a text, Ford tends to toughen up his language as he makes his big pitch: Elect Republicans or a Democratic veto-proof Congress of big-spending budget-busters will produce a legislative dictatorship.

Here's a typical sample from a Saturday-night speech in Louisville, Ky.

"Let me put it just as bluntly as I can. If you get a veto-proof Congress, boy, tighten your seatbelts. You are going right through the roof of the United States Capitol as far as the federal treasury is concerned ... The keys to the treasury will be thrown away and the money will pour out unbelievably."

The results of Ford's campaigning to date have been mixed, although he told reporters Saturday, "I've really been encouraged ... I loved those crowds."

The President's audiences, even when sizeable, often have seemed more curious than enthusiastic. And sometimes they've been small. For example:

—No more than 4,000 turned out Saturday in a Louisville hall that seats 18,000, despite a telephone blitz and local radio advertising.

—Airport rallies at Lincoln, Neb., and Greensboro, N.C., drew barely 2,000 each and a fund-raising box luncheon at Greenville, S.C., attracted but 300, who sat surrounded by tiers of empty seats.

To balance off such disappointments, Ford can point to much bigger, noisier receptions in Sioux Falls, S.D., Indianapolis and Anderson, S.C.

Voter apathy in Watergate's wake may be the reason why Ford has yet to attract crowds as large and enthusiastic as those that customarily welcomed other presidents in recent decades.

Glenn Blasts 'Lies' By Perk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic U.S. Senate candidate John Glenn has accused his Republican opponent, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, of telling the "most scurrilous, malicious kind of lies" in a desperate attempt to bolster his campaign.

Glenn, in an interview Sunday, challenged Perk to prove his charges or "apologize to the people of Ohio for misleading them."

"That's a challenge he can't take up because he knows he can't prove any of the things he's putting out," Glenn said.

The former astronaut referred to a statement put out by Perk Saturday after warrants were issued for a former Glenn campaign aide on bad check charges.

Perk called the check case a "scandal" and charged Glenn with a "Watergate-type coverup." He claimed some of the bogus checks were "redeemed with Glenn campaign money in order to cover up these alleged criminal activities."

Glenn said Sunday the man named in the warrants, Louis Quintero, got no money from the Glenn campaign and contributed no money to it. He said his staff advised people who thought they were bailed out of money to report it to the police.

Perk claimed that Glenn learned of Quintero's activities in September, but didn't tell authorities.

Stephen J. Kovack, Glenn's campaign manager, said Quintero volunteered his services in April, representing himself as a public relations consultant.

He said Quintero opened offices in Spanish speaking sections of Youngstown, Cleveland and Toledo, but his activities apparently ceased in the middle of August.

Kovack said Quintero was told in a telegram from Glenn's staff Sept. 25 that he was "to have nothing more to do with the Glenn campaign."

Quintero reportedly is wanted in connection with the writing of bad checks totaling as much as $65,000, allegedly for repayment of loans he obtained in the name of the Democratic nominee.

In other political developments, the Columbus Dispatch reported Sunday the latest results of its voting machine poll show incumbent Democratic Gov. John Gilligan and his Republican challenger James Rhodes locked in a dead heat going into the final two weeks of the campaign.

Meanwhile, Rhodes said in campaign stops Sunday that thousands of Ohio school children must walk to school this winter rather than ride buses because of the administration's "adamant refusal to adequately fund Ohio's schools."

Rhodes also said a large number of school districts are operating on split session and at least seven districts are preparing to close for the same reason.

Ohio River Quake Noted

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — No damages or injuries were reported Sunday when a small earthquake shook a wide area along the Ohio River here.

G.A. Bollinger, professor of geophysics at Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va., said the quake was recorded on the seismograph at the school and would have registered between a two or three on the Richter scale.

He described it as "very small and very rare" but said several such quakes have been reported in the area in the last hundred years.

Residents of the area said the vibrations and tremors lasted only a few seconds. At first an explosion was suspected at one of several nearby chemical plants. Later when plant officials reported nothing unusual, it was assumed it was a sonic boom.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slipped marginally lower in slow trading today, as companies reported third-quarter earnings and several commercial banks announced cuts in their prime rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.56 at 653.32, recovering from earlier lows when the index was down almost 4 points.

Earnings reports for a number of companies fell short of year-earlier levels during the third quarter and indicated further softening of the economy, brokers said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was off .08 at 68.09.

Declines edged advances 586 to 511 among 1,514 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, whose broad-based index sagged .09 to 37.99.

Transamerica Corp. topped the Big Board's volume list, steady at 5%.

Ford Motor, which disclosed various cost-cutting measures today, fell 1 1/2 to 33 3/4.

SURPRISE—Circleville and Pickaway County residents were surprised Sunday morning to find the first snowfall of the year blanketing the ground. The snow, which started late Saturday night, accumulated to from two to six inches in spots but was gone by the afternoon. Many tree branches were not as lucky as this one on N. Court St. when the weight of the snow broke them off. The snow caught county crews unaware, as they were called out to salt bridges and some roads. The snow, hitting the warmer roads, caused more of a driving problem by turning into a heavy fog.

Trio Arrested In Theft, Arson

Ford Holds Meeting With Echeverria

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford left here at dawn today enroute to his first visit outside the United States since becoming the nation's chief executive.

With oil and economic problems promising to dominate their talks, Ford set aside eight hours for his first hands-across-the-border meeting with Mexican President Luis Echeverria.

Ford was flying to Nogales, Ariz., from Washington to meet Echeverria before embarking on a lengthy round of substantive discussions at meeting sites in both countries.

The talks, which mark Ford's first venture outside the United States as President, will embrace Mexico's quest for economic concessions and the U.S. interest in a major oil discovery in that country.

There were indications that Echeverria might like to trade oil for Washington's agreement to admit migrant Mexican farm workers — a development that would help ease Mexico's serious unemployment problems.

Ford was expected to stress north-of-the-border concern about the flow of illegal immigrants from Mexico at a time when the United States has a mounting unemployment problem of its own.

The U.S. President told reporters Saturday night that immigration, oil, joint efforts to curb traffic in illicit narcotics and seven or eight other matters of mutual concern would be taken up. There was no formal agenda for the discussions.

Ford's itinerary had him flying from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., to David-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson, Ariz., then going by helicopter to Nogales to greet Echeverria.

The two presidents were to fly by helicopter to Magdalena de Kino 70 miles south of the border for nearly two hours of talks at the local city hall.

Ford and Echeverria then will go by helicopter to Tubac, Ariz., 15 miles north of the border, for a luncheon and more discussions.

They then stole a car in Circleville belonging to a Columbus resident, during Pumpkin Show, Wednesday. Detective Thompson found the car in Petty's garage stripped, ready to be taken to the junk yard.

Thompson noted that while returning Friday with Petty after recovering stolen items, Petty attempted to escape. Petty went through the city parking lot when an unknown man halted Petty and held him until Thompson and Deputy Bill Dountz arrived.

The department would like to know the name of the man who aided them. George Grooms was bound to grand jury on two $3,000 bonds, for grand theft and arson; Petty two for $4,000 bonds, for grand theft and arson and Sheila Grooms, signed a recognizance bond for $1,000.

Unseasonably cold air chilled many parts of the country east of the Mississippi River early Monday, with temperatures reported near or below freezing from New England to the northern half of South Carolina.

In the Midwest, temperatures dipped into the teens in southern Michigan and northern Indiana.

Despite the cold, there was little precipitation in most parts of the nation.

The exceptions were reports of an inch of snow in north central Nevada, scattered rain showers from Idaho into the western regions of Montana and Wyoming, and the northern sections of Utah.

Light snow also left traces of moisture over the western portion of New York State and Pennsylvania.

There were cloudy conditions in southern Texas, northern Michigan and spots along the eastern Ohio Valley through the central Appalachians.

Conditions were cool but fair over the remainder of the country.

Temperatures were in the 50s over much of the plains to the Central Gulf Coast and were in the 40s to low 60s west of the Rockies.

Six Injured In Weekend Accidents

Six people were injured in four weekend traffic accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Hazel Gahm, 61, Route 1, Chillicothe, was referred to a physician for treatment of forehead lacerations in a two-vehicle accident 3 p.m. Saturday on the Circleville-Kingston Road.

According to the report, she was following a pick-up truck and farm wagon operated by Margaret Enoch, Route 1, and attempted to pass when Mrs. Enoch made a left turn.

Ms. Gahm was charged with driving left of center.

The first of two accidents on Route 23 occurred 7:50 p.m. Friday just north of Country Road 511.

Philip Boles, 47, New Carlisle, was southbound on Route 23 and Bernard Cornette, 46, Cattlettsburg, Ky., could not stop his vehicle in time when Boles was slowed by traffic.

Cornette was charged with failing to maintain assured clear distance ahead. Vicki Lohmes, 19, Urbana, a passenger in the Boles vehicle, suffered neck and shoulder injuries.

Three people were hurt in a three-car pileup on County Road 511 just south of the Big Bear Supermarket entrance 2:50 p.m. Saturday.

John Moreland, 33, Columbus, was headed south in one vehicle followed by Dora Hsiao, 38, Columbus, in another.

Bernard Engle, 54, Amanda, was driving north on the road when he went left of center, hitting the Moreland car in the left side, and then the Hsiao car.

David Logan, 6, Columbus, a passenger in the Moreland car, was treated for forehead injuries; Ms. Hsiao was treated for abrasions; and a passenger in her car, Dori Hsiao, was treated for leg injuries.

Engle was charged with driving while intoxicated; having no operator's license; and driving left of center.

Deputies arrested drivers of two cars involved in an accident 8:20 p.m. Sunday on Route 23, just south of South Bloomfield.

Michael O'Donnell, 19, Grove City, was northbound on Route 23 in the driving lane, and Howard Kirk, 42, Reynoldsburg, was also northbound in the passing lane.

O'Donnell apparently attempted to change lanes, hitting the Kirk car and knocking it into the median strip.

O'Donnell was charged with changing lanes without caution, and Kirk was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Mary Kirk, a passenger in Kirk's auto, was treated for a back injury.

A Page Of Opinion

Research Decline

Although it remains popular in Congress and elsewhere to criticize defense spending, reports that the Soviet Union is pulling ahead in missile superiority are causing some searching looks at U.S. weapons research.

The Pentagon says its research is falling behind, affected both by inflation and reduced appropriations.

Defense Department officials might be suspected of trying to feather the nest, which is not uncommon in Washington, but they have the facts to support their claim. In the last decade total defense spending was declined by about one-fourth, with basic research down about 35 per cent.

The picture is familiar. After each war, almost without exception, the nation has gone through a period of disdain for the military and neglect of defense preparedness.

Even with the announcement that the Soviets have demonstrated the capacity to launch from subs missiles capable of traveling almost 5,000 miles — twice the distance of the farthest traveling U.S. sub-based projectile — few alarms are sounded in the capital.

A loud and clear warning is called for. The kind of military hardware stockpiled today in armaments closets does not permit much catching up once hostilities begin.

Football's His Game

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — How about Jerry Ford for the Carnegie Medal for Heroism?

First citation: "Gerald R. Ford, President of the United States, picked up his southpaw pen and performed one of American history's most valorous acts by signing his name to a proclamation pardoning former President Richard Nixon."

In all the annals of Presidential pardons there has been nothing even approximating this single act of political courage. It was signed and sealed though he guessed at the time that it might cost him 20 points in the Gallup and Harris ratings. It did. Also it cost him the friendship of a lot of his old chums in the Congress — pals he was going to need badly to support him in his efforts to keep the U.S. from sliding further into the mire of the Nixon Depression.

Furthermore, he absolved Nixon peremptorily after saying he'd wait for the outcome of court cases and subpoenas that had been served on the ex-Prez. On top of that, Ford excused Nixon for crimes which Nixon has never admitted he committed.

Second citation: He had the raw courage to hold up the telecast of the third game of the World Series while he repeated a belt-tightening speech on the economy. That meant that he intruded on what about 80,000,000 Americans considered their civil rights — the right to see a ballgame.

He did this in face of the terrible fate that befell "Heidi," when that juvenile telecast was put on the air before the conclusion of a soul-stirring and gizzard-shaking pro football championship.

Ford is the new Heidi. But surely he careth not a damn. He's going to keep making that talk on the economy until he understands it.

Presidents have been treating baseball with gloved-handed respect since old Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators invited President Howard Taft to throw out the first ball in 1913. With the precedent established, few Chief Executives have dared reject an invitation to have their office exploited by a crassly commercial game.

But some have liked it. Woodrow Wilson had managed the Princeton ball club at one time and knew the game well. After he left the White House, he'd frequently attend games at Griffith Park under extraordinary circumstances. His Pierce Arrow convertible would be driven on to the field and parked in foul territory between first base and right field. Wilson, immobilized by the stroke that had hit him while still in the White House, would watch the game from the back seat of the open car. A batting-practice catcher always sat on the front bumper of the car, to block any lines drives headed Wilson's way. The ex-President would not have been able to duck such shots.

Warren G. Harding had once had a piece of a minor league team in Marion, O., and was as much of a fan as his predecessor. He kept a box score and downed bags of peanuts during a game.

Calvin Coolidge was a real baseball square. Knew from nothing. At the end of the ninth inning of the seventh game of one of the most enthralling World Series ever played, the 1924 meeting of John McGraw's Giants and young Bucky Harris's Senators, and with the great (but twice-defeated) Walter Johnson coming in as a relief pitcher, and the score tied 3-3, Coolidge got up to leave.

His wife grabbed him by the seat of the pants. "Where are you going?" she demanded.

"Game's over," Silent Cal said. "End of the ninth inning."

Herbert Hoover loved baseball. He, too, had been a college manager, at Stanford. One of his great anguishses as President was the day in 1931 when he appeared at Shibe Park to see a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals and the whole congregation rose to boo him and chant, "We Want Beer!" Prohibition still had its heel on the neck of the thirsty, and Hoover was blamed for everything in those dreary days.

FDR was a jaunty fan. Did a lot of arm-waving and scorecard-fanning. Harry Truman could take it or leave it, but never dared miss an opening day to throw out the first ball. He was a switch-thruster: he alternated being a southpaw and a northpaw.

Dwight Eisenhower stunned baseball to the roots by announcing he would not throw out the first ball of 1953. Worse, he said he had a golf date that day. Fortunately for him, the game was rained out, so he made it to the ballpark the next day. Had he not, he, instead of a future in-law, might have become the second President ever impeached.

JFK had played the game all his life, of course; LBJ liked being the top banana in the Presidential box, surrounded by fellow politicians. Nixon, always pining to be one-of-the-boys, would never have thought of missing being used as a stooge, as long as there was a ballclub in Washington.

Now along comes Jerry, the finest athlete ever to occupy the White House. And he pops up in the World Series.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Debt repayments on installment loans are taking most of the discretionary income of some consumers. Layoffs are mounting. Factories are slowing the production lines.

What do these characteristics suggest? Well, certainly not a recession, if you use the standards of the administration. President Ford says there's no recession. So does his commerce secretary, Frederick Dent.

Earlier in the year Dent referred to the economic decline as an "energy-crisis spasm." Last week, after the third straight quarterly decline in the Gross National Product, he explained "the spasm continues."

What really is occurring, Dent explained, is "sideways waffling," a term that will be variously interpreted as an effort to hide the truth, a lack of awareness, or a frightening attempt at euphony that recalls the reassuring statements of the early Hoover administration.

Mysteriously, the definition of "recession" disappeared with the onset of what once used to be called recession. The most popular definition was two consecutive quarters of declining Gross National Product.

To date, the GNP has fallen for three straight quarters — 7 per cent in the first three months of 1974, 1.6 per cent in the second three, and 2.9 per cent in the third quarter.

Moreover, a further decline, most likely larger than that in the third quarter, is likely to occur in the final three months of the year. And a large number of responsible economists foresee a continued decline early in 1975.

Contributing to the decline is a slowing of factory operations. A Federal Reserve Board report reveals that plants operated at only 79.2 per cent of capacity in the July-September period, the lowest in two years.

Lionel Edie, the economic consulting arm of Merrill Lynch, the broker, predicts the gap between potential GNP and actual GNP will be the widest since the 1930s by the middle of next year.

At the same time, joblessness is moving sharply higher. It reached 5.8 per cent of the labor force in September, and is almost certain to exceed 6 per cent in the fourth, or current, quarter.

With an economy acting so badly and often so surprisingly, long-distance forecasts are dangerous to make. Many responsible economists are, however, suggesting that a rate well above 6 per cent might prevail early in 1975.

The strains of this deterioration are present in every middle and lower class family in America, especially since they are combined with a consumer price inflation that leaped to 11.5 per cent in the third quarter.

Many families now are buried by their own mismanagement, having to use their income merely to pay old bills. Installment debt repayment in the second quarter hit 16 per cent of disposable income, highest ever.

More significantly, that debt amounted to 45 per cent of discretionary income, or that income not automatically committed to the purchase of necessities.

School Superintendent On Russian Tour

MOSCOW (AP) — Ohio School Supt. Martin Essex is in the Soviet Union heading a 12-member State Department team conducting a two-week study of educational developments here.

The delegation plans to observe nursery schools, kindergartens, elementary and secondary schools, vocational and technical centers, evening schools and universities.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Oct. 21, the 294th day of 1974. There are 71 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1805, an English fleet under Lord Nelson defeated French and Spanish fleets off Spain's Cape of Trafalgar, ending Napoleon's power on the seas.

On this date — In 1938, the Japanese captured the Chinese city of Canton.

In 1944, in World War II, U.S. troops captured Aachen, the first large German city to fall to the Allies.

In 1945, women voted for the first time in France.

In 1967, thousands of demonstrators against the Vietnam War stormed the Pentagon in Washington, and at least 250 arrests were made.

Ten years ago: President Charles de Gaulle threatened that France would withdraw from the European Common Market unless agreement was reached on its agriculture program.

Five years ago: Willy Brandt became the first Socialist chancellor in West Germany's 20-year history.

One year ago: The U.N. Security Council passed a joint U.S.-Soviet resolution calling for an immediate cease-fire in the war between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

Today's birthday: Former New York Yankee pitcher Whitey Ford is 46 years old.

Thought for today: He that will not apply new remedies must expect new evils — Roger Bacon, English philosopher, about 1214-1294.

An ordinance proposing to amend Circleville's zoning law was held to first reading by city council. A public hearing on the amendment was conducted in conjunction with the regular meeting. The primary issue concerned house trailers in the city.

Three airmen stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base and a Circleville resident were arrested by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department in conjunction with a burglary at the local American Legion Post. Walton Spangler was the county sheriff.

Lawrence Reid was named to fill a vacancy on the Westfall Board of Education. He was the Muhlenberg Twp. clerk of trustees.

The Goldwater Girls, under the direction of Mrs. Don Ringer, were to be included in the entertainment at the rally and covered dish dinner scheduled by the Pickaway County Women's Republican Club.

Runaway Bay Is Accurately Named

RUNAWAY BAY, Jamaica (AP) — Runaway Bay on Jamaica's north coast is said to have been named for the runaway slaves in the 17th and 18th centuries who fled to Cuba in canoes. Once they arrived, the Spanish would immediately baptize them so they couldn't be returned to the "British heretics" without imperiling their immortal souls.

"I got into trouble at school for something I didn't do... my homework."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Polyps have been taken out of my nose three times. After the operation, I feel fine. Then the polyps return and my nose becomes blocked again. Why do they keep returning?

Mr. T. L. T., Pa.

Dear Mr. T.:

Nasal polyps are caused by infection of the sinuses, allergies, or a combination of both.

Polyps are grape-like swellings in the inner lining of the mucous membrane of the nose.

When they grow large, they impair breathing through the nose because of their size.

Immediately following surgery the free passage of air through the nose is so comfortable that many patients fail to return for further treatment. Herein lies the reason for the return of polyps.

If the underlying allergy and sinus infection remains untreated, polyps will form again and continue to grow until they obstruct free breathing.

It is important that the cause of polyps be treated after the polyps have been removed.

My doctor refuses to give me water pills to lose weight. My friends take them and lose as much as three pounds a day.

Miss F. E., N.J.

Dear Miss E.:

Since you wrote this letter, have you noticed that those same friends have regained their lost weight?

The temporary loss of weight by dehydration is not a substitute for loss of weight by sensible dieting.

Diuretics, or "water pills," are very valuable tools of modern medicine. They are carefully chosen for very specific conditions.

They are not used casually by doctors.

Unfortunately, many of these pills are purchased without prescription, and are traded by "friends" who have no awareness of the fundamental principles of weight reduction.

Man In Uniform

By JIM BISHOP

My brother John would look like a cop, even if he wore a grass skirt. The hard Irish kisser, the belly, the dignified swinging stride all spell "fuzz." And yet, in a family of policemen, he was always the softest touch. Grandpa Tier called him "puddin' head."

It is common for brothers to look different, to be disparate in their tastes and ambitions. We two, who huddled together on the cold nights for many years, could not be further apart.

My mother told me that when he was almost two, he wet his pants. She was about to spank him when he shouted through tears, "Jim did it in my pants." A kid like that can't be all bad.

He had blondish wavy hair; mine was black. He had pink scrubbed skin; mine was dark. He had his friends; I had mine. Our parents were stern disciplinarians, but, when he played around a bonfire and mother smelled smoke on his good suit, I was hit for it.

When I asked why, she said, "You should have been watching him." I was neat with my clothes and shoes; he wasn't. Someone told him about girls and, overnight, he became the Beau Brummell of the neighborhood.

Nothing was too fine for Johnny to wear, including my father's best ties. Deep inside, he had a respect for the police uniforms worn by grandpa and my father. In addition, he was rank conscious.

When he enlisted in the 112th Field Artillery, John was a rear rank buck private, but, when he had a formal photo made, he sewed sergeant's stripes on.

After that hitch, he enlisted in the Coast Guard and served aboard the destroyer "Cassin" out of New London. He walked head up, arms swinging in uniform. Like his brother, he made his youthful mistakes, but his best was when he had "True Love to Bubbles" tattooed on his arm.

A lot of "Bubbles" followed that Bubbles. I feel now that he made out better with girls because he was so courtly that he forced them to become aggressive. They were making bold moves and wondering why.

He was painfully law-abiding. When the rest of us were jamming second-hand accelerators to the floor, Johnny was doing 25 miles per hour, bestowing smiles on pedestrian girls who had the right attributes.

If he was apposed to any specific thing, it was study. His sole aspiration was to become a policeman and buck for a pension. He met an attractive redhead named Anna Gryniak and, overnight, Johnny's harem went down the drain.

He became soulful. He went to church regularly. He even tried to learn Polish phrases so that he could impress Anna's mother. Anna was a little more than attractive; she was ambitious. She didn't think much of a policeman's life.

The marriage was in a church at Sixth and Cole Streets, and I couldn't understand a word the priest said whether it was in Latin or Polish. Anna's father made pink gin for the reception. I almost fell in the bridal veil when it was passed around.

That was a long time ago. Their three children have children. They lived nice—not rich—and bought their radios and furniture on the time-payment plan. John became a railroad detective.

He was happy. I was busy clawing my way to the stars. He finished a day's work, had a good steamy dinner, and sat holding Anna with one hand and a bottle of beer with the other. To his way of thinking, this was the ultimate; there was nothing further he wanted out of life.

Anna scrimped enough for a down payment on a house. She and Johnny lived upstairs. My sister Adele and her husband lived downstairs. It is a symbol of John's logic that when Adele claimed a pipe was leaking from the second floor down onto her brand new wallpaper, John drew himself up to full dignity.

"Adele," he said. "It isn't leaking on anything upstairs, so you get it fixed." We were that kind of family. Through the years, the most careful driver in the world bought many cars. I cannot recall one that did not sustain a busted transmission. John always had a friend who could fix it for half-price on his own time.

When it was repaired, he drove off happily and, two blocks away, the transmission fell out. He had that kind of luck. Our lives are planets apart. I have drive; he has none. But I wouldn't trade him for the original Abel.

Nine years ago, I asked Irving Cowan, president of the Diplomat Hotel and Country Club in Florida, to help Johnny attain his old ambition. If you get down that way, you'll see him pacing his beat, a polite, slightly aloof man—in uniform.

Whatever he had in mind when we were kids, he finally made it...

Subdivision Gets Water Again

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Water service was restored today for the 200 homes in the Forest Hills subdivision. Licking County Common Pleas Court Judge Winston Allen Friday granted the City of Heath authority to supply the water and bill the Forest Hills Utility Co. for the service.

Allen's action followed failure of the company to comply with a court order issued Tuesday directing it to provide water to the subdivision. The state attorney general's office filed contempt of court charges against the utility Friday.

City Teachers Attend In-Service Workshops

WORKSHOP—During Thursday's in-service day, Nicholas Drive Elementary teachers participated in a workshop entitled "Mastering The Basic Math Facts". Shown with Dr. Charles W. Smith Jr. of Ohio University are Floreen Heeter, Mary Elsea, Beth Smith and Karen Adkins.

The Circleville City Schools conducted three workshops for all elementary teachers on Thursday.

The workshop for primary teachers, "Mastering The Basic Math Facts," was conducted by Dr. Charles W. Smith Jr., Associate Professor in the School of Curriculum and Instruction at Ohio University, and Dr. Paul S. Malcolm, Assistant Professor in the Mathematics Department at Ohio University.

Emphasis was placed on every-pupil response techniques, techniques for total class involvement, and mastery techniques in basic facts.

Weekend Traffic Toll Hits Only 4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio motorists apparently have recorded one of their safest weekends of the year, following two of their deadliest.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported that only four persons died over the weekend, tying the third weekend in January and the fourth weekend in June as the safest of the year.

In contrast the first two weekends of October were among the year's worst, with death tolls of 20 and 23, respectively.

The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY
WAUSEON — Robert L. Uloth, 28, of Metamora, in a two-car smashup on U.S. 20 in Fulton County.

SATURDAY
CLEVELAND — Loucinda Cleveland, 31, of Cleveland, in a one-car crash on a Cleveland street.

SIDNEY — Ronald D. Hickman, 31, of Sidney, in a one-car accident on a Shelby County road near Sidney.

OTTAWA — Daniel J. Niemeyer, 19, of Fort Jennings, when his auto crashed on a Putnam County road near Ottawa.

Parent-Teacher Conferences Set

County Superintendent Edward Martin has announced that parent-teacher conferences are scheduled Monday in all the county schools.

Conferences will be held from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. in all buildings in the Logan Elm and Westfall School Districts. Teays Valley District will schedule conferences in the elementary schools from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. and the junior and senior high school from 2 until 8 p.m.

Parents are encouraged to arrange for conferences with their children's teachers on that date. Students will not be in attendance at any of the county schools in order that teachers will have the opportunity to discuss students' progress with parents.

Bus drivers will be attending a safety workshop for bus drivers at the Jackson Elementary School. Registration will be 8:30-9 a.m. with the program lasting from 9 until 12. Arrangements for the program are being made with the county office and the Division of Transportation, State Department of Education.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

One winter's day, Art, a teenager, was amusing himself by hurling snowballs at passing cars. One snowball missed its target and struck a pedestrian across the street, injuring his eye. Could Art be held liable for assault and battery?

In a court hearing, his lawyer said no.

"Art had no wrongful purpose toward this man," went the lawyer's argument. "Hitting him was purely accidental."

However, the court ordered Art to pay damages. The court invoked the doctrine of "transferred intent," by which an original wrongful intent—in this case, the desire to hit the passing car—was transferred to the accidental consequences.

This widely recognized doctrine is based on the law's reluctance to let a wrongdoer get off scot-free. It has even been applied in a case of mistaken identity. Thus:

A man sneaked up behind another man, thinking he was an old antagonist, and bashed him on the head. Actually, the victim happened to be a total stranger.

But that didn't help the first man when he was haled into court afterward to face a damage claim. Applying the doctrine of transferred intent, the court had no trouble finding him liable.

On the other hand, the doctrine will not apply if there was no wrongful purpose in the first place.

Suppose, for instance, that a woman who is being chased by a mugger throws a rock in his direction. And suppose the rock misses the mugger and hits an innocent bystander.

Under these circumstances, the woman could not be held responsible for injury to the bystander, because she had acted in legitimate self defense. With no wrongful intent to begin with, there would be nothing that could be transferred into legal liability.

Bancorporation Declares Dividend

George Armstrong, president of The Ross County National Bank, an affiliate of American Bancorporation, has announced a 3 per cent stock dividend payable to shareholders of American Bancorporation, Columbus-based bank holding company. The Ross County National Bank has offices in Adelphi and Kingston.

The stock dividend is payable to shareholders of record November 30. The payment date is December 9.

Armstrong reported that net income of American Bancorporation reached $201,522 for the nine months ended September 30, compared to $154,915 for the same period in 1973. Consolidated assets of American Bancorporation were $53 million as of September 30, an increase of 12 per cent from the year earlier figure of $47 million.

The six affiliate banks and four non-bank subsidiaries of American Bancorporation reported consolidated operating earnings of $278,895 for the nine months ended September 30. Operating income was 54 per cent higher than 1973 operating income of $818,008. Income before extraordinary items was $1.19 in 1974, compared to $.13 in 1973.

Cuyahoga Race Hot, Heavy

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— One of the most hotly contested races in Ohio this year is in the southern and western third of Cuyahoga County, the 23rd District where voters will elect a new congressman for the first time in 20 years.

Seven candidates seek to succeed Republican William E. Minshall of Lakewood, who is retiring.

The campaign lines up as a three-way battle. The principals are state Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma; state Rep. George E. Mastics, R-3 Cleveland, and Dennis Kucinich, Cleveland councilman who is running as an independent on the premise that one cannot avoid Watergate-type politics in either major party.

The contest also includes two attorneys and two businessmen alike only in their determination to be giant killers.

The four are Arthur L. Cain of Strongsville, a patent attorney; Bohdan A. Futey of Parma, director of Cleveland's bicentennial preparations; Hugh J. Gallagher of Lakewood, a specialist in industrial promotions, and William H. Maloof, a commercial parking lot owner.

Mottl, 40, perhaps best known as the state senator who sponsored the Ohio lottery bill, wades into the fray with the backing of the state's largest newspaper, the Cleveland Plain Dealer. A 16-year veteran of politics, Mottl has been a senator since 1969, a state representative and a Parma councilman.

The 1974 23rd District campaign centers on tactics to tilt successfully against the twin windmills of corruption in government and inflation.

Mottl would control prices, wages and profits and raise the personal federal income tax exemption from $750 to $1,000. He would use receipts from an excess oil profits tax to finance research into alternative energy sources.

Mastics, a state representative since 1967, is wont to appear on the doorsteps of 100 potential constituents on an Indian summer campaign Saturday with his blonde wife, Carole, and one of five children in tow.

"Balance the budget," he responds to yet another inflation-weary suburbanite. Mastics claims the U.S. debt at $500 billion is $90 billion more than the combined debt of the rest of the world.

Foreign and giveaways have cost the nation $22 million a day for nearly 30 years, he says.

An act that bears Mastics' name provides for drug rehabilitation centers, drug education in Ohio schools and harsh punishment for peddlers.

Mastics describes another of his bills, one dealing with campus disorders, as one "to allow students wanting an education to get one without the disruptive activities of radicals and troublemakers."

Kucinich, a three-term councilman, who will turn 28 this month, wants to go to Congress Ralph Nader-style. He wears the epithet maverick, applied by the media, like a battle ribbon.

"Keep this in mind about your story," he told a reporter as he rushed out a door. "I'm going to be probably the only independent in the country elected to Congress this year."

Kucinich offers a threepronged attack on what he sees as a textbook cost-push inflationary spiral: $10 more federal income tax exemption for every 1 per cent increase in the government's price index; export controls to minimize distortions in domestic market prices and a 95 per cent tax on excess corporate profits to force business to increase sales by lowering prices.

But, it is in independence as the antidote to Watergate politics that Kucinich feels he has a gut issue.

"Watergate happened to hit the GOP, it could have hit either party," said a Kucinich staffer. "Everybody running for anything this year is holding out the image most closely linked to Dennis—courageous, outspoken, maverick populist."

"Dennis wants to go to Washington to show we can learn from Watergate, as the guy who won't play by the cozy rules of the club, the guy nobody can shut up."

Kucinich's legal fight to overturn a $98 million Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate increase went to the Ohio Supreme Court this month. The suit challenges the utility's right to set rates based on reconstruction costs that automatically escalate with inflation.

Last month he won headlines as chairman of a council committee whose investigation of conditions at the Warrensville workhouse resulted in resignation of the city health director and replacement of the workhouse commissioner.

His major party opponents eye Kucinich respectfully for another reason. Minshall rarely had real opposition in winning 10 consecutive terms in the House until 1969, the year of the Nixon landslide, when Kucinich cut the veteran's plurality to 2 per cent.

Keep America beautiful, but keep America alive!

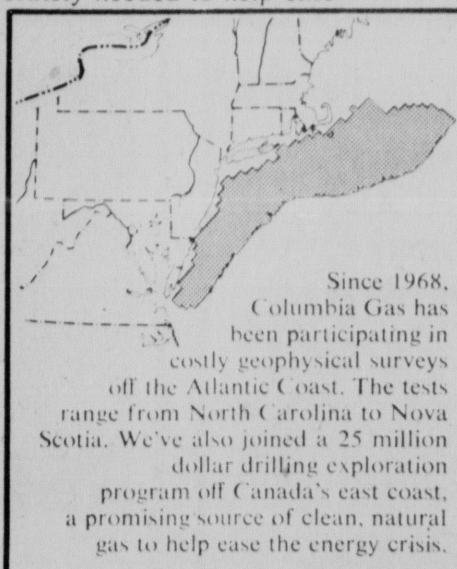

Some of America's most beautiful resort areas lie along the Atlantic Coast. And no one wants to mar their beauty. It's much too valuable a natural resource.

But, there's another tremendously valuable natural resource over the horizon along the Atlantic Coast. Energy. Energy that is desperately needed to help ease our nation's worsening energy crisis.

We must not sacrifice one resource for the other.

And we needn't. Modern techniques for under-water drilling and delivery of fuel have eliminated the danger of permanent environmental damage. An offshore drilling rig won't even be seen from the shore. And offshore production will reduce the need for increased tanker traffic.

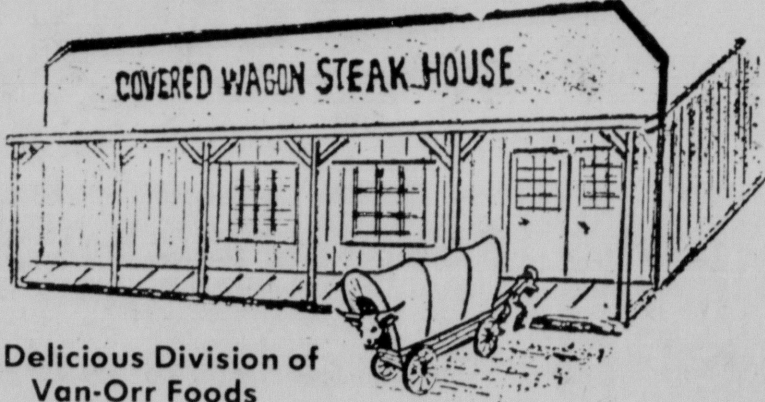

All domestic sources of energy must be developed to meet our growing national fuel needs. The potential of the Atlantic outer continental shelf is great and can be realized in an environmentally safe manner. The Atlantic coast areas depend on a prosperous America. And a prosperous America depends on energy.

Since 1968, Columbia Gas has been participating in costly geophysical surveys off the Atlantic Coast. The tests range from North Carolina to Nova Scotia. We've also joined a 25 million dollar drilling exploration program off Canada's east coast, a promising source of clean, natural gas to help ease the energy crisis.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Pregnant Daughter Refuses To Wed

DEAR ABBY: My daughter graduated from college. With honors, yet, but listen to what this dumbbell did. She moved in with her boyfriend with the understanding that if they both decided they were right for each other they would get married.

Now she thinks she's pregnant, but she has not told her boyfriend because she wants him to marry her for HERSELF not because there is a baby on the way. Have you ever heard of such stupidity from a college graduate?

Thank God we don't live in the same city because I keep thinking of things I'd like to say to her and it's getting harder and harder to keep my mouth shut.

I wish I could talk some sense into that girl's head. She never misses your column. Maybe you can.

TEARING MY HAIR

DEAR TEARING: Your daughter hasn't asked me for any advice, so I'm not about to give her any. But I have some for you. Quit tearing your hair over a grown daughter of legal age who is determined to live her life the way she wants to. It's her privilege. Right or wrong.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two children under five. I was married, but it didn't work out.

For a year now I have been going with a very nice and lovable older man. My only bad break is that he is married and living with his wife.

He says he loves me very much and one day will marry me, but right now he feels sorry for his wife and he can't talk divorce to her or she will crack up. (She's not very strong. They have five kids.) He tells his wife he's working late and comes over here for supper nearly every night. My kids call him "Daddy," but they're confused because when they go to bed at night their "Daddy" is here, but he's never here when they wake up in the morning.

I have no one to talk to about this. My mother would never understand. Please advise me.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: I think you're wasting your time. Get smart and say goodbye to this part-time "Daddy." Look for an unattached man your kids can say "Good night" and "Good morning" to.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this in utter disgust for the way guys are starting to dress now. It makes me sick to my stomach to see men walk around in platform shoes and midriff blouses with their navels showing! What on earth would make a man want to dress that way!

Are people so taken in by the weirdo fashion designers that they will buy anything as long as it's new and considered "in"?

I don't mind a little imagination in men's wear, but some of these flowered shirts and feminine looking duds are ridiculous. Men don't look like men anymore.

Now that I got this off my chest, I feel better.

FEMALE

DEAR FEMALE: Not ALL men are buying the above-described attire. And as for your complaint about men not looking like men, could it be because some WOMEN look like men?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LU WITH A LULU OF A PROBLEM": Yes, for every problem there IS a solution—even if it's only learning to live with it. When you pick a lemon, make lemonade.

Conservation Promoted

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The refusal of Americans to make necessary sacrifices has contributed to the nation's worsening inflation and energy shortages, a federal transportation expert told an area conference here Friday.

"Once the oil began to flow again, everybody forgot there was a crisis," said John E. Hirtten, deputy administrator of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA).

He said a major step toward easing oil shortages could come from "a balanced, integrated intermodal approach to urban transportation."

"We are currently dependent upon foreign petroleum sources for 25 per cent of our needs, and it is projected to increase between 48 and 50 per cent in 1980," Hirtten said.

"Even at 1973 prices this would have thrown our balance of payments way out of line, but with current increases it can have disastrous results," he said.

Kidney Unit Needs Coupons

Betty Crocker coupons are still being accepted by the local Kidney Foundation. Local chairman, Helen Knece, urges people in the area to save coupons found on Betty Crocker foods for redemption to help the Kidney Foundation.

Pick-up places in the area are Revco Drugs, the Circleville Police Department, Salvation Army, Bingham Drugs, Senior Citizen Center on Lancaster Pike, and the Risch Drug.

The senior citizens are helping with the project by trimming the coupons for redemption. The Betty Crocker Company refunds one tenth of the face value of the coupons for the foundation.

Thirteen home kidney machines plus two hospital dialysis machines have been purchased by the local Kidney Foundations through the collection of the coupons. Dialysis machines have been sent to Riverside Methodist and University Hospitals by the local chapter.

Equipment is now needed to help operate these machines. Mrs. Knece also advises that cards are available upon request from her for kidney donations.

Kidney disease is one of the greatest killers in the world today especially in young people but through the work of the Kidney Foundation, many of these people can be saved to enjoy productive lives.

Paperwork Swamping Policemen

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Police say thousands of unfilled and untranscribed crime reports are delaying some investigations here by more than a month.

Officials estimate 3,000 reports telephoned in by police officers are waiting to be typed and turned over to detectives for investigation because of a shortage of typists. About 30,000 completed reports are stacked at Central Police Station awaiting filing because of a shortage of clerks.

Until copies of the reports are made, insurance companies will not pay claims for stolen properties and the state will not reimburse victims of food stamp thefts, police say.

Police Lt. James Birmingham said the department has 29 women to take care of records, 10 less than the minimum needed to make the system work.

Uncompleted reports also keep police from spotting patterns such as 27 cars damaged and burglarized in the first district Sept. 25, Birmingham said. Those reports were not typed until last week.

A force of temporary office workers has been hired to work on the backlog, while others try to keep pace with the 800 new cases reported daily, Birmingham reported. He said the staff is transcribing the backlog at a rate of 160 cases a day but might have to be kept longer than expected.

The department hired 11 new typists recently and is looking for more, he added.

Man Makes Own Electric Car

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Dick Bassett says he took a basket of surplus military electrical parts and a junk auto body and turned them into a little electric car that hums along at 40 miles an hour for up to 50 miles.

"My wife and daughters drive it continuously," he said. "It's an awful lot cheaper than a gasoline-driven car."

"The idea of an electric car isn't anything new, but putting one together and driving it around town sure is," said Bassett, 48, an engineer at Sandia Laboratories.

Bassett said the car costs a little over half-a-penny per mile to operate, based on the current price of electricity. He said he has about $1,000 invested in the car. Nearly threefourths of the cost is in the 10 lead-acid storage batteries, five each in what had been the car's engine and trunk spaces.

"It's a weird feeling, sitting at a stoplight in the car. When the accelerator isn't depressed, there's no sound. No power is consumed. You always wonder if you're really going to move when you hit the pedal," Bassett said. "My wife has a problem with it while shopping. People in parking lots constantly walk in front of the car, because they can't hear it coming."

"We also have trouble getting service at drive-in bank windows, because tellers depend on an intercom to alert them that a customer is coming. We usually wind up blowing the horn."

The idea of the car, he said, had been in the back of his mind a long time.

"I really decided to do something about it when the energy crisis came. The car body had to be light and boxy, so I bought a 1963, four door foreign compact sedan. I began by stripping everything out of the car—motor, radiator heater, hoses, the works."

"It weighed about 1,595 pounds to begin with. I stripped about 300 pounds off of it," Bassett said.

He acquired a surplus aircraft generator from a California firm — a 28 volt, 300-amp generator that weighed about 80 pounds and delivers about 36 mechanical horsepower.

Bassett discarded the car's clutch assembly and bolted the generator directly to a fourspeed transmission he rebuilt.

"I rigged a flexible coupling, but I was counting on the syncromesh in the transmission to let me shift gears without a clutch. It worked out real fine, but we never use first gear. It's such a high gear ratio, it just spins the wheels or tends to lift the front end of the car."

Controlling the speed proved another problem.

"That was solved by rigging the accelerator pedal to sequenced micro switches, which are used to operate surplus, 400-amp, 28-volt relays," he said. "That gives the car three electrical speeds in each gear. The pickup is fantastic. And when you let up on the accelerator pedal, it becomes almost freewheeling."

The batteries are charged by plugging a charger into a connector in the grill.

"An overnight charge is sufficient to restore even a completely dead battery," Bassett said.

Former Nixon Aid Raps Press Role

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—A former aide to ex-President Richard Nixon criticized the news media Sunday for what he said was biased coverage of the White House.

Bruce Herschensohn singled out the television networks and said the daily coverage of former administration officials going to and from court for the Watergate proceedings was a form of "20th Century lynching."

Speaking at the closing session of a symposium conducted here by the Center for the Study of the Presidency, Herschensohn said Nixon was in a now-win situation with the news media.

"If we gave out news, we were regarded as paranoid," Herschensohn said. "If not, we were criticized for not informing."

Also participating in a discussion of the media and the presidency, Dr. J. Leiper Freeman, political science professor at Vanderbilt University, said those who criticize the media the most need to analyze and study it more.

The center, a nonprofit New York-based group devoted to "the study of the world's most powerful lay office," held its three-day symposium at the historic Spiegel Grove Estate of former President Rutherford B. Hayes.

The symposium was sponsored by Heidelberg College in nearby Tiffin, Bowling Green State University and the Hayes Foundation.

Predominant theme arising out of the meetings was an apparent need to strengthen the two-party system.

Jerald TerHorst, who served briefly as President Ford's press secretary, told the 135 academicians Saturday night that recent third-party movements are indications of a weakening of the two-party system.

"Independents are sufficient to constitute a major third party," he said.

TerHorst, who resigned because of the pardon of Nixon, said Ford is in a position to restore faith in the system.

He said the President has the respect and admiration of many Democrats, but also could strengthen his own party by influencing conservative Democrats and independents toward the Republican cause.

Jurying this year's show was Professor Warrington Colescott of the University of Wisconsin.

Chandler also has work in a two-man show which is now being exhibited on the campus of Urbana College near Springfield.

Probe Hospital Embezzlement

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — An investigation into charges of embezzlement at Hardin Memorial Hospital was to continue today with a grand jury reconvening and taking evidence at Elizabethtown.

Strict secrecy has surrounded the investigation. Former hospital Director Don Davis said in May that embezzlement went on during the term of a previous hospital administrator.

Davis said he learned of the embezzlement through a report by an accounting firm that audited hospital records.

Inventors Sag In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — If necessity is the mother of invention, then September must be its stepchild.

September is traditionally a slow month for inventions, reports the Intellectual Property Owners, a nonprofit organization in favor of a strong patent system, from its review of patents issued through the years.

The winter months have seen the most significant inventions. That's when Thomas A. Edison did some of his best work. The Wizard of Menlo Park staked claim to his electric lamp in January 1880 and his phonograph on Feb. 19, 1878.

Inventor Samuel Colt patented his revolving gun February 1836, magician Harry Houdini's diver's suit for quick escape was filed with the U.S. Patent Office on March 1, 1921, and Alexander Graham Bell revolutionized our lives with his telephone on March 7, 1876.

The only significant invention IPO turned up for September was an automatic reading system devised on Sept. 12, 1961, by Kenneth R. Eldredge of Palo Alto.

Cleveland Shootings Leave 7 Dead

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Seven persons were shot to death in six incidents during the weekend in what police called one of the bloodiest 24-hour periods in the city's history.

Cuyahoga county's coroner for the last 38 years, Dr. Samuel Gerber, said he couldn't recall as many fatal shootings in the same time period.

"No one knows what to do to stop the slaughter," Gerber said. "Hardly a day goes by without a homicide."

Dead were three teenage boys, a teenage girl and three men, all Cleveland residents. The toll did not include the girl's unborn child which died with her.

The deaths brought the city's homicide total this year to 236, police said. The count stood at 288 at this time last year.

Police said Terry Jackson, 18, was shot to death at about 2 a.m. Sunday as he walked with a girl companion. Police were told a man came up to the couple, pushed Jackson against a building, and, after a brief argument, shot him and fled.

Witnesses told police 14-year-old Allen Orcutt was shot in the back Sunday while riding in a car with friends. Police said a youth was in the back seat playing with a gun when someone reached for it and it fired.

James Ottrix Jr., 13, was shot by a man chasing him at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday, records showed. Witnesses said the man fired two shots into the youth as he lay on the ground.

Official reports said Vanessa Stephenson, 17, and Charles McKinney, 31, were killed at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday when three men and a woman entered the girl's home and broke up a card game with gunfire. The coroner reported Miss Stephenson was six months pregnant.

Forty-two-year-old Joseph Smith was slain by one of two masked gunmen who robbed six women playing cards with him at about 3 a.m. Sunday, police said.

John Paris, 24, died in surgery Sunday with a gunshot wound of the chest after being shot at home at about 6:30 p.m.

The coroner was to rule today in the death of Marlene George, 22, who died Sunday after being shot in the stomach July 13. She had been treated at hospitals several times since the shooting.

BancOhio Corporation Reports 13 Per Cent Earnings Increase

BancOhio Corporation reported an increase in operating earnings (before securities transactions) of $728,000 or 10 cents per share for the three months ended September 30.

Operating earnings for the quarter were $5,166,000 or 71 cents per share, as compared to $4,438,000 or 61 cents per share for the corresponding quarter in 1973. For the nine months ended September 30, 1974 operating earnings were $16,467,000 or $2.26 per share, an increase of 13 per cent over 1973's nine months results.

BancOhio's earnings for the quarter improved in spite of a $2 million provision for possible loan losses in excess of the estimated minimum provision calculated under the five-year moving average formula. This extra addition to the consolidated loan loss reserve reduced the third quarter income by 14 cents per share. Philip F. Searle, BancOhio Corporation's president and chief executive officer, said "we believe this addition to the loan loss reserve is a realistic approach based on present economic conditions."

Included in operating earnings for the third quarter was approximately $694,000 or 9 cents per share resulting from the change in accounting for installment loan income from the straight line method to the "sum-of-the-digits" method, approved by BancOhio Corporation's Board of Directors in June, 1974. The impact of this change in accounting method for the three quarters ending September 30, 1974 was approximately $1,418,000 or 19 cents per share.

Net income, after security losses, for the quarter ended September 30, 1974 was $4,520,000 or 62 cents per share, as compared to $4,631,000 or 64 cents per share for the comparable period in 1973. For the nine months ended September 30, 1974 net income was $20,724,000 or $2.84 per share and includes $6,208,000 or 85 cents per share representing the cumulative effect of the accounting change on years prior to 1974. Net income for the months ended September 30, 1973, was $14,281,000 or $1.96 per share.

Searle said that BancOhio Corporation's loan-to-deposit ratio of 66 per cent is one of the lowest among the nations top 50 banking organizations and is a major indicator of BancOhio's quantitative and qualitative control of credit during 1974. Since September 30, 1973 a period of unprecedented inflationary pressures and continued consumer and business loan demand, BancOhio's consolidated loans only increased 4 per cent to $1.6 billion.

No Rapid Transit Seen For Cities

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Preliminary studies indicate cities the size of Cincinnati and Indianapolis cannot expect to see the development of rapid transit systems in the near future, a transportation planner told a tri-state conference here over the weekend.

Richard Bourque, assistant director of transportation planning for the Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana Regional Planning Authority (OKI), made the remarks during a keynote address on long-range planning.

Each such system would cost approximately $2 billion, Bourque said, noting that the federal government has not indicated support for funding on such a massive scale.

"Frankly, I don't see it in the next 20-25 years unless we can tie it to something like the proposed Cincinnati-Columbus-Cleveland service," he said, referring to the railroad passenger that once linked the three cities.

There have been proposals that Amtrak reestablish the route.

OKI approves all federally-financed programs for 13 counties in the three states.

Bourque said transportation problems must continue to be attacked by regional authorities.

The workers, members of the Sandusky Chrysler Employees Association, voted 100-22 in favor of the new pact, which replaces one that expired June 1. Details of the agreement were not disclosed.

Businessmen See No Deep Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite inflation, rising unemployment and the high cost of money, the nation should get through the coming months without a severe economic slump, say businessmen surveyed by The Associated Press.

The business leaders — nearly a 100 retailers, manufacturers and bankers from around the country — were queried during the month before President Ford's economic address to Congress.

Inflation remains the country's biggest economic problem, the businessmen say, but unemployment is a growing cancer and is expected by the businessmen to become the next major problem.

President Ford won general praise for what many called his cautious, prudent approach to economics, though many said they'd reserve judgment to see results. In general, they said Ford's economic summit meetings helped focus public attention on inflation, a critical need many businessmen said.

"Half of economics is science," says Maurice Ferre, Miami mayor and president of Maule, Inc., a construction company. "The other half is human nature, which outweighs the so-called economic truths."

"If people believe there will be a recession, there will be."

As might be expected, most of those businessmen interviewed say more business and less government is the long run answer to inflation.

"Rather than relief from government I think our real need today is relief of government," says Ken Smith, executive with Jantzen, Inc., a Portland, Ore., clothing manufacturer.

"The government is the biggest consumer and the consumer still controls inflation," says Robert Duckworth of the First National Bank of Arizona.

A balanced budget is the first step toward easing inflation because it will reduce government demand for funds, thus freeing money for business expansion, said most businessmen questioned. Increased productivity and expansion, will cut inflation, they said.

"There are only two reasons for inflation: too much money or too few goods," says William Dillard Sr., an Arkansas retailer. "We need more producers."

But, says Gabe Rutherford, president of an Arkansas steel fabricating firm: "The talk about cutting federal spending really means cutting construction. That would mean a bigger slowdown."

Despite growing evidence of a recession — consumer hesitancy, concern over inventories, rising unemployment — the businessmen still say inflation is the nation's chief economic headache.

"I don't think inflation is going to change its upward trend or stop anytime soon, because I don't think prices are going to stop rising," says Lewis Kohn, chairman of Maryland's Rochsild Kohn Department Store.

But, says Kenneth Ross, economist with the First National Bank of Arizona: "Ford may be in a little better position than President Nixon. There are some blips on the radar screen that may mean we are starting to come out of the problem."

Some are more skeptical, however. "I think it's unrealistic to think we can stop inflation without too severe of a recession," says Bill Bright, a West Virginia greeting card manufacturer.

Deny CIA Involved In Viet Protests

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. embassy today denied that the Central Intelligence Agency is involved in demonstrations against President Nguyen Van Thieu and accused North Vietnam of a "crudely obvious, attempt to exploit the dissent."

The embassy statement was issued after another anti-Thieu demonstration Sunday in Saigon in which a police jeep was burned and the National Assembly building was stoned. There were peaceful antigovernment rallies in Hue, Can Tho and other towns.

The embassy cited Viet Cong statements in the past two weeks charging that the CIA is giving support to dissident political groups in South Vietnam.

"The United States does not encourage, nor does it support in any way, any political faction in Vietnam," the American statement said. "These accusations are utterly groundless and totally false."

The statement also cited recent Viet Cong and North Vietnamese military attacks. It said by destruction of roads, bridges and other important installations, North Vietnam is "seeking to increase the economic suffering of the South Vietnamese people in the hope that it can exploit politically the resulting misery."

Rhodes Wins Enquirer Endorsement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes was endorsed for the Ohio gubernatorial race Sunday by The Cincinnati Enquirer.

The newspaper, on its Sunday editorial page, said it backed Rhodes because of the achievements made in education and industrial development during his two terms.

The Enquirer said the Republican candidate, who is facing Democrat John J. Gilligan, "is more correctly attuned to Ohio's needs and its people's aspirations."

The endorsement contained praise for Gilligan's successes during the past four years, but credited Rhodes for major advances in a wide range of areas.

"Ohio blazed many trails during the Rhodes years—in historic preservation, in highway safety, in corrections and mental health, in industrial safety, in public works, in urban affairs," it said.

The editorial said Rhodes was responsible during his eight years as governor—from 1963 to 1971—for investing more state operating money in elementary and secondary education "than all the governors from 1915 to 1963."

Industrial development, the newspaper said, resulted in "Ohio leading the nation in the expansion of commercial and industrial facilities" and the attraction of $13 billion in new capital investment.

The editorial said the development program was responsible for providing 750,000 more jobs in the state during Rhodes' two terms.

Moore Would Aid Coal Talks

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — West Virginia Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. says he would be willing to help with coal contract negotiations if he is asked to do so by both sides.

Moore, interviewed by WTRF-TV, said he would not have the slightest hesitation to join coal operators and United Mine Workers representatives at the bargaining table if he can help "resolve the matters in difference" as he did in 1971 when the last coal contract expired.

Moore noted there is less than one month left in the current contract and he understands discussions have not yet begun on the economic and monetary union demands.

ALL WEATHER BANKING AT THE SAVINGS AUTO BANK MEMBER FDIC

The Viet Cong on Oct. 12 claimed that the U.S. government was trying to infiltrate agents into the dissident South Vietnamese political groups to "manipulate and turn" the dissent to the benefit of the United States.

The Communists charge that the United States is conducting a "double-faced" policy: pushing Thieu to make reforms to strengthen his position and at the same time trying to develop a position of influence with the opposition in case Thieu is overthrown.

U.S. officials contend that the Viet Cong is conducting the "double-faced" policy: assailing the United States for its support of Thieu and at the same time accusing the United States of preparing a fallback position should he be ousted.

Some analysts say they believe the Viet Cong is laying the groundwork, should Thieu be forced out, to refuse to cooperate with his successor by claiming that the United States was behind the change. So far, however, there is no suggestion that the anti-Thieu movement is strong enough to topple him.

Man Said Suicide As Police Approach

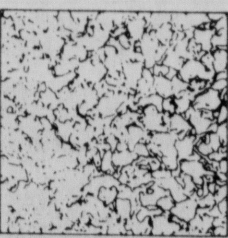

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — North Canton police reported Sunday that Kenneth Schultz, 21, of Warren, Mich., shot himself to death as officers approached him to question him about a drugstore holdup.

Police said Schultz was AWOL from the Air Force.

The regents authorized creation of Graduate Policy Advisory Program Committee and directed it to report back no later than Jan. 1, 1976.

Hamilton Police Seek Shotgun User

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton police today continued to seek the person who fired three shotgun blasts into a bar late Saturday night, wounding three men in the hail of buckshot. The men escaped serious injury.

Police said a man in the bar said he had been involved in an argument with another man at another tavern earlier in the evening.

Cattle Inventories Show New Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price crunch on livestock feed continues to take a toll on feedlot cattle inventories, new figures by the Agriculture Department show.

As of Oct. 1, USDA said Friday, cattle being fed for slaughter in the 23 major beef states totalled 9,149,000 head, down 24 per cent from the same date last year and 22 per cent below Oct. 1, 1972.

Officials said it was the smallest Oct. 1 feedlot inventory of cattle since 1967. The decline has been going on for months, however, because of high prices for corn and other feed in relation to what cattle sell for on the market.

That does not mean less total beef, however. In fact, USDA says the beef supply currently is up substantially from last year, and apparently will continue for some time as producers cut back on herds.

The additional beef is coming from cows and other cattle which have been fed little grain, including steers and heifers coming directly off grass pastures.

The report Friday said sales of grain-fed cattle in the July-September quarter from feedlots totalled 5,522,000 head, down 7 per cent from a year earlier and 26 per cent below the third quarter of 1972.

Looking ahead, officials said, fourth-quarter sales are expected to total 5,294,000 head, 18 per cent below October-December last year, and down 22 per cent from the same period in 1972.

Another report by USDA showed the retail price of beef — estimated on an all-cut basis — dropped 3.5 cents a pound in early October from the week ended Sept. 28.

The report said that in the week ended Oct. 5 beef sold in retail stores at an estimated average of slightly under $1.37 per pound, down from more than $1.40 a week earlier.

Both the farm share and the middleman portion of what consumers paid for beef were down during the week, the figures showed.

OSU Leads Grid Wins

BEST-EVER?—Football followers from across the nation are calling the 1974 edition of the Ohio State Buckeyes the best group of players ever assembled in the wake of their 49-9 crunching of Indiana Saturday. And one of the reasons is the explosive passing attack directed by Cornelius Greene. Brian Baschnagel (48) hauled in six of Greene's throws for 111 yards. Champ Henson (38) looks like he would have been a good target on this play.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Woody Hayes is coming close to calling his top-ranked Ohio State football team his greatest ever.

"This team can do some things the others couldn't," he said after the Big Ten coleaders hammered visiting Indiana 49-9 Saturday.

Then is this squad better than his unbeaten powers of 1954 and 1968?

"Now, I'll tell you that in five games. But up to now, this is the most versatile I've ever had," Hayes added.

The Ohio State coach is delaying his assessment for five weeks. That's the regular season finale with third-ranked Michigan, almost certain to be for the conference championship again. The Buckeyes and Wolverines share the Big Ten lead with 3-0-0 records.

Once more the 6-0-0 Buckeyes showed off their varied attack, crushing the 1-5-0 Hoosiers with 333 yards rushing and another 235 through the air. Indiana managed 266 total yards.

"We really learned a lot," Indiana Coach Lee Corso said.

"They (Ohio State) play fair and honest. They've got class. This is a national championship caliber team. I haven't seen anyone better," he added. "We're young and they're terrific," Corso said.

Hayes admitted an early bid by Archie Griffin to become the Big Ten's champion career rusher for all games was "loused" up by big plays by teammates.

"(Cornelius) Greene loused one play up," Hayes said. "He's only supposed to get a first down. So he runs 30 yards to the Indiana six. Then another time he calls a pass and throws a (53-yard) touchdown to (Dave) Hazel."

Hayes ordered his first offense into action one more time early in the fourth quarter.

"They went out on the field and Arch was going to run until he got the record," the Ohio State coach explained.

Griffin bagged the record on the first play. In all, he rushed for 146 yards and two touchdowns, running his career total to 3,321 yards, six more than Otis Armstrong of Purdue had in 1970-72.

Griffin and Greene combined for 446 total yards and figured in five touchdowns, forcing Corso to call them super athletes.

"What can you say about Griffin that hasn't already been said?" asked Corso.

The Indiana coach said of Greene, "He adds new dimension to their offense. He can get through holes that are not even diagrammed on the blackboard."

In other Ohio college football action, Miami extended its unbeaten string to 18 games and improved its Mid-American Conference record to 2-0 by whipping Bowling Green 34-10.

That set up a crucial conference clash next weekend between the Redskins and the Toledo Rockets, who share the top spot in the MAC standings with a 3-0 mark. Toledo and all the other MAC teams played outside the league Saturday.

Cards Only Unbeaten In NFL

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

And then there was one ... barely. The surprising St. Louis Cardinals are now the only undefeated team in the National Football League — the Minnesota Vikings and New England Patriots were knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten Sunday — and Coach Don Coryell is enjoying his team's success to the fullest.

"The pressure of being unbeaten doesn't make any difference from a coaching standpoint, but I like it," said Coryell, in his second year at St. Louis since leaving San Diego State. "I wouldn't be in the business if I didn't."

Quarterback Jim Hart sparked the Cards to a 31-13 lead early in the fourth quarter, and they withstood two one-yard touchdown runs by Houston's George Amundson for the victory.

Hart capitalized on a pair of Oiler fumbles and threw touchdown passes of six and 40 yards to Earl Thomas in a 1:32 minute span of the second quarter to spark the Cards.

Meanwhile, the Detroit Lions dropped Minnesota from the list of the unbeaten, upsetting the Vikings 20-16, while New England's balloon finally was burst by Buffalo 30-28.

Elsewhere in the NFL, the Baltimore Colts whipped the New York Jets 35-20, the New Orleans Saints upset the Atlanta Falcons 13-3, the Dallas Cowboys beat the Philadelphia Eagles 31-24, the Pittsburgh Steelers edged the Cleveland Browns 20-16, the Washington Redskins defeated the New York Giants 24-3, the Miami Dolphins slipped past the Kansas City Chiefs 9-3, the Denver Broncos defeated the San Diego Chargers 27-7, the Los Angeles Rams topped the San Francisco 49ers 37-14 and the Oakland Raiders beat the Cincinnati Bengals 30-27.

Lions 20, Vikings 16

Bill Munson was the big man for the Lions, completing 22 of 32 passes for 276 yards. Ten of his passes were caught by wide receiver Ron Jessie.

Detroit's victory was its first over the Vikings in 14 meetings going back to 1967.

Bills 30, Patriots 28

New England's Sam Cunningham raced 75 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage, but after that it was a struggle for the Patriots, who had stunned football experts by winning their first five games.

"That run scared me," said Buffalo quarterback Joe Ferguson, who threw for three TDs. "I'm just glad we forgot about it and came right back," he added.

Ferguson threw touchdown passes to Paul Seymour and O.J. Simpson within the next 11 minutes to put Buffalo in front, and New England never drew even.

Rams 37, 49ers 14

James Harris sparked in his first start at quarterback for the Rams, passing for three touchdowns and running for another. He completed 12 of 15 passes for 276 yards.

San Francisco wide receiver Dan Abramowicz caught two passes and set an NFL record with at least one reception in 97 straight games.

Dolphins 9, Chiefs 3

"It was a tough yard," said Miami Dolphins fullback Larry Csonka, whose one-yard plunge with 17 seconds remaining beat the Kansas City Chiefs 9-3. Csonka, who didn't practice all week because of an injured left knee, gained 80 yards in 17 carries.

Raiders 30, Bengals 27

"There was never any doubt in my mind," Oakland Coach John Madden said of his decision to punt with his team at the Cincinnati 32-yard line with three minutes left. Oakland trailed 27-23 at the time.

Saints 13, Falcons 3

Bobby Scott, given the starting nod at quarterback when Coach John North benched Archie Manning during the week, tossed a 36-yard scoring pass to Paul Seal for the only touchdown of the game as the Saints upset Atlanta for their first victory in 19 games on the road.

Steelers 20, Browns 16

Pittsburgh struggled past the Browns as quarterback Joe Gilliam managed to complete just five of 18 pass attempts for the Steelers. Two second-half field goals by Roy Gerela were the difference.

Redskins 24, Giants 3

Veteran Sonny Jurgensen threw three touchdown passes to pace the Redskins, who took advantage of frequent New York mistakes, including a punt which was blocked by Mike Hull.

Cowboys 31, Eagles 24

Dallas snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Eagles. Roger Staubach's one-yard TD run midway through the fourth quarter was the margin of victory.

Colts 35, Jets 20

Baltimore's Lydell Mitchell set an NFL record by carrying the ball 40 times, one more than O.J. Simpson's standard set last year. He gained 156 yards and scored one touchdown in leading the Colts to their first victory of the season.

Broncos 27, Chargers 7

Running back Floyd Little, slowed all season by a nagging ankle injury, scored one touchdown and set up another by galloping 72 yards with a short pass to lead Denver past San Diego.

Top Colleges Post Victories

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer

After four upset-filled weekends, the college football scene returned to normal Saturday ... and in this jumbled season that may be the biggest upset of all.

Only three members of The Associated Press Top Twenty came out losers and two of them bowed to other ranked teams.

Tenth-ranked North Carolina State suffered a 33-14 licking at the hands of unranked arch-rival North Carolina, but No. 9 Arizona was topped by No. 17 Texas Tech 17-8 and No. 13 Kansas underwent a 56-0 humiliation at the hands of No. 12 Nebraska.

Meanwhile, the runaway 1-2 teams in The AP ratings rolled to easy victories — top-ranked Ohio State crushed Indiana 49-9 while runner-up Oklahoma bombed Colorado 49-14.

Elsewhere, third-ranked Michigan shaded Wisconsin 24-20, No. 4 Alabama trounced Tennessee 28-6, No. 5 Auburn outscored Georgia Tech 31-22, No. 6 Southern California struggled past Oregon 16-7, No. 7 Notre Dame flattened Army 48-0 and No. 8 Texas A&M eased past Texas Christian 17-0.

In the Second Ten, 11th-rated Penn State rallied to beat Syracuse 30-14, No. 14 Florida turned back Florida State 24-14, No. 15 Arizona State whipped Utah 32-0, No. 16 Texas leveled Arkansas 38-7, No. 18 Maryland blanked Wake Forest 47-0, No. 19 Miami of Ohio belted Bowling Green 34-10 and No. 20 Tulane ripped The Citadel 30-3.

It was a weekend of comparisons, although no one has played both Ohio State and Oklahoma. Wisconsin, however, played Ohio State a week ago and was routed 52-7 while making it much closer Saturday against Michigan.

"They're both fine teams," said Coach John Jardine. "Ohio State was as fired up for us as anyone has ever been. Whether Michigan was fired up or not, I don't know."

Colorado has played Oklahoma and Michigan, losing to the latter 31-0 four weeks ago.

"Michigan is a fine team but Oklahoma is better," said Coach Bill Mallory. "If they want to play each other, it's all right with me."

Indiana's Lee Corso and Colorado's Mallory couldn't compare the 1-2 teams directly, but they had some thoughts, anyway.

"This is a national championship caliber team," Corso said after Ohio

State's Archie Griffin romped for 146 yards and two touchdowns and became the top ground-gainer in Big Ten history.

It was Griffin's 16th consecutive 100-yard regular-season game, one short of the national record held by Oklahoma's Steve Owens. Griffin also passed the century mark in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, but that doesn't count in the NCAA record book.

Griffin's output boosted his career yardage to 3,321, surpassing the mark of 3,315 set by Purdue's Otis Armstrong a couple of years ago.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma's Joe Washington, a junior like Griffin, rambled for 200 yards and four touchdowns in just 18 carries against Colorado as the Sooners chewed up 594 yards of real estate on the ground.

"There can't be a better team than Oklahoma," said Mallory. "They were awesome. If there's a better back in the country than Washington, I haven't seen him. What moves and balance he's got! Their offense is fabulous. If they play like they played against us, I don't see anyone beating them."

Michigan's Dennis Franklin threw an eight-yard touchdown pass to Greg DenBoer to snap a third-period tie against Wisconsin and the Wolverines also got scoring runs from Chuck Heater and Gordon Bell.

Willie Shelby ran 13 and 19 yards for Alabama touchdowns and set up one of Calvin Culliver's two scores with a 41-yard punt return.

Auburn's stingy defense was riddled for 22 points by Georgia Tech but still came up with the big plays. Chuck Jones, a freshman, blocked a punt and ran it 42 yards for a touchdown and recovered a fumble to set up another tally.

One of the 160 yards gained by Southern Cal's Anthony Davis produced a touchdown and Chris Limahelu tacked on three field goals enabling the sluggish Trojans to defeat Oregon.

Fullbacks Wayne Bullock and Russ Kornman split four touchdowns as Notre Dame whipped Army and David Walker completed seven of nine passes for a whopping 220 yards in the Texas Aggies' triumph over TCU. One of them was a screen to Ronnie Hubby, who galloped 60 yards to score.

Texas Tech stifled Arizona's high-powered offense, holding the Wildcats to 273 yards, well below their average. Curtis Jordan and Randy Olson came through with key interceptions and the Red Raiders also recovered two Arizona bobbles.

North Carolina scored three times in the first period on runs of 36 yards by Mike Voight, three by Chris Kupec and 10 by Boom-Boom Betterson and in topping N.C. State.

Penn State's Tom Shuman ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third against Syracuse; Nebraska's Dave Humm fairly sizzled with 23 completions in 27 tosses — including 15 in a row — for 230 yards and three scores against Kansas; Florida came from behind in the final period to down Florida State on a 63-yard touchdown pass from Don Gaffney to Alvis Darby and Tony Green's 12-yard run.

Arizona State freshman Dennis Sproul threw a pair of scoring passes as the Sun Devils trounced Utah; another rookie, Texas fullback Earl Campbell, gained 109 yards on just eight rushes, one of them a 68-yard touchdown gallop, in the Longhorns' rout of Arkansas; Bob Avellini passed for 157 yards and two touchdowns as Maryland stomped Wake Forest, which has lost its last four games by 196-0.

Ron Carpenter tallied twice as Miami of Ohio whipped Bowling Green and Steve Foley rushed for 142 yards, including a 47-yard touchdown, as Tulane sank The Citadel.

Miami, despite an offensive lag in the second and third quarters, had little trouble in beating the Falcons. Quarterback Sherman Smith rushed for 109 yards and one touchdown as Miami jumped ahead 14-0, saw the lead dwindle to 14-10, and then scored 20 points in the final period.

Toledo lifted its overall record to 4-2 by rolling over Dayton 38-27. The Rockets took an early lead on quarterback Gene Swick's pass to Don Seymour in the end zone and touchdown runs by Swick of three and 18 yards.

Utah State edged Kent State 27-24 on Al Knapp's 42-yard field goal with 1:44 remaining to play.

Ohio University evened its season record at 3-3 by trouncing Morehead State, Ky., 49-10, as quarterback Rich Bevy ran for three touchdowns and passed for another.

Independent Cincinnati swamped Wichita State 43-0 after changing ahead early by turning three pass interceptions into touchdowns.

In Ohio Conference play, Baldwin-Wallace and Otterbein remained deadlocked for the Red Division lead with 2-0 marks after victories Saturday.

B-W trounced Heidelberg 35-14 to give Coach Lee Tressel his 100th collegiate coaching triumph. Otterbein downed Muskingum 28-10 as fullback Steve Schnarr piled up 111 yards in 22 carries and scored two touchdowns.

A battle of Red Division cellar-dwellers saw Marietta (1-1) topping Wooster (0-2), 21-13.

Mount Union toppled Capital from first place in the OC Blue Division with a slim 9-7 triumph on Bob Wire's 22-yard field goal in the final period. The victory put Mount Union into a tie for the division lead with Ohio Wesleyan at 1-0. Capital dropped to a 1-0 mark.

Wittenberg and Denison battled to a 10-10 tie in another Blue Division contest. It was the first division game of the season for the Tigers.

Reserves Zip Unioto 37-0

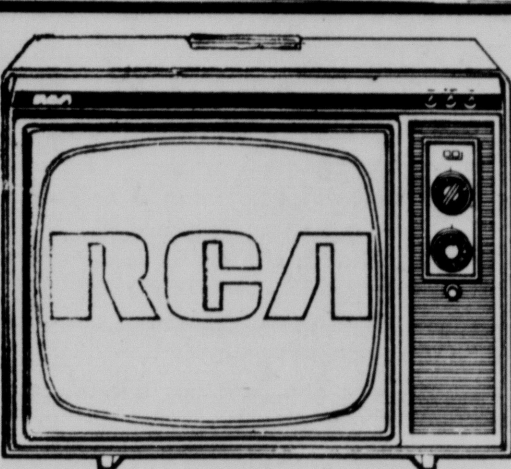

The Circleville reserves scored every time they had possession of the ball in the first half and coasted to a 37-0 win against Unioto Saturday.

The Tiger reserves never punted in the game and stalled Unioto's only threat on the 15-yard-line as the game ended.

Credit for the win was given to the Tiger offensive line of Alan Van Vliet, Harl Stevenson, Brian Price, Luke Lawhorn, Art Davis, Rusty Holbrook, Danny Marshall, and Tom McGuire.

The scoring was evenly divided. Mearle Logan ran 25-yards for a TD and added an extra point run; Frank Merrill scampered 35 yards with a pass from Brad Allison, 50-yards with a punt return, and carried for two extra-point runs; Bill Mogan powered 45 yards off tackle and kicked an extra point; and Tom McGuire scored on a 10-yard pass from Brian Fath.

The Tiger reserves are now 6-1 for the year.

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Weighty matters will need to be given sufficient thought now; also a great deal of patience. Don't try to rush things through. Neither fear failure. Stress your innate optimism.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An average day generally, but you may be given some additional responsibilities; may also face some complex situations. Handle all with your usual equanimity.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You may find yourself in the midst of controversy. Don't let it bother you. Rather, get together with opponents and, using your innate foresight, you can solve all issues nicely.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A thoughtful review before beginning day's program will speed up its fine potentialities for success. Especially favored: teachers, students, all engaged in the medical professions.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Advance a new idea, enlist the help of others to put it across. Under prevailing influences, you should win new benefits, advance your status.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stellar influences only fairly generous, so you will have to provide your own momentum to carry on. Neither too many problems nor much opposition indicated.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): This looks like one of your better days. You should be the center of attraction in whatever circle you find yourself — business or pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Excellent Mars influences! New trends may result in an agreement where there was only opposition before. Do make the most of such fine opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Jupiter influences not too friendly. Avoid getting in over your head — especially where you happen to be on unfamiliar ground.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A favorable day for negotiations, working toward contract settlements. Parties of the second part now appreciate what you have to offer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Mixed influences. Stay out of speculative ventures and be exceptionally careful in dealings with the opposite sex.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20):

The Piscean tendency to seek the unusual and offbeat will be much in evidence now. You'll find much satisfaction in areas others overlook.

YOU BORN TODAY are an intense and lively individual — a real "firecracker" in both your personal and professional life. Your attitude toward associates is extremely outgoing and you possess an unusual flair for the dramatic. With all this, you are within, a softly sensitive person, caring deeply for others and actually suffering over "man's inhumanity to man." No matter what career you adopt, you will, almost inevitably, make time to devote yourself to causes designed to improve the common lot. Career-wise, you would make an intense and dynamic actor, a brilliant attorney or jurist, a highly sensitive musician — in almost any field. Birthdate of: Franz Liszt, world-renowned composer; Sarah Bernhardt, French actress; Joan Fontaine, film star; Giovanni Martinelli, Ital. opera singer.

Brothers Win Munich Contest

MUNICH (AP) — Anthony and Joseph Paratore, Boston-born duo-piano team, won first prize in the piano division of the Munich International Competition.

Anthony, 29, and his brother, 25, will receive a cash award of approximately $4,000 and contracts with at least three major West German broadcasting companies. They will be invited to perform in Vienna next season.

The Paratotes studied at the Juilliard School with Mme. Rosina Lhevinne, who was the first to suggest that they play as a team.

Mozart

To Midwest

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The 1974-75 season of four operas by the Minnesota Opera will open Dec. 13 with a party for singers and guests and will include a new Christmas opera as John Phillip Sousa might have seen it.

"Gulliver," a story of three of Gulliver's voyages, each written by a different composer, opens Feb. 22. Mozart's "The Magic Flute" in English will open April 4 and Conrad Susa's "Black River," a view of 1890 in the Midwest, will close the season in May.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service tonight is airing "Drink, Drank, Drunk," a one-hour look at the lush life. It's must-see viewing for anyone concerned about the major disease called alcoholism.

Produced by WQED in Pittsburgh and hosted by Carol Burnett, its main emphasis is on helping families and employers of problem drinkers spot the symptoms of alcoholics and suggesting how to best cope with alcoholics.

But the heavy booze might also do well to watch it, if only for a very funny, yet razor-sharp sketch about an alcoholic and his non-drinking, nagging wife. It was written by the husband-and-wife team of Joe Bologna and Renee Taylor.

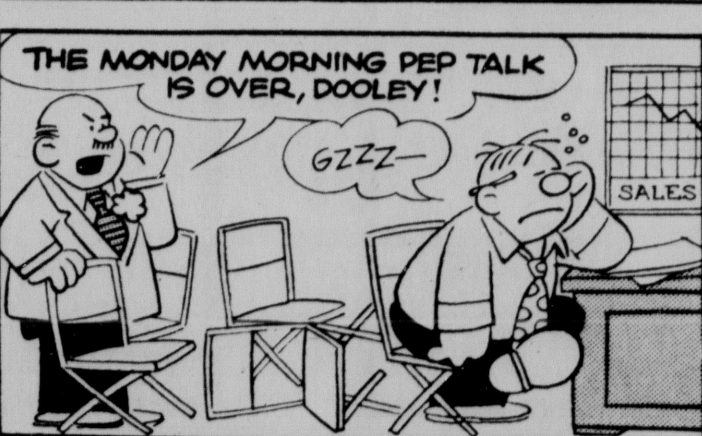

They're contestants in a game show, "You Waste Your Life," in which the ceaselessly cheery M.C. (Ron Carey) notes the game is played for high stakes: "You can lose your wife, your family, your house, your self-respect and your drapes."

Contestant Bologna, bleary-eyed and in a bathrobe, tells about himself this way: "Well, when I started drinking, I was a Supreme Court Justice. Then I landed a fascinating job cleaning rugs, and now I'm semi-retired and living off my mother's savings."

Points in the game are scored by the back-and-forth psychological tactics common in situations of this kind: Lies by the drunk, nagging by the wife, remorse, hate, forgiveness, rage and so on.

At one point she threatens to leave if he touches the garage again, adding, "I'm taking all the furniture and

Extortionist Blasts 11 Power Towers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — State, local and federal authorities have begun preparations to counter possible power blackouts in case an extortionist carries out his threat to dynamite more transmission line towers in the Portland area.

Bonneville Power Administration officials, area police and the FBI reviewed emergency plans Sunday after the power administration refused to pay a $1 million ransom demanded in an extortion letter.

Officials from area military installations and the Oregon National Guard were briefed on the situation.

Portland General Electric Co. and Pacific Power and Light, major city-based utilities, fired up reserve combustion-powered and steam plants to provide extra electricity if needed.

City officials asked for approval to order overtime shifts for workers already converting a civil defense shelter into a communications center for emergency services.

"What we probably face is an outage where the entire area might be totally without power for a few hours up to a day or two," said power administrator Don Hodel.

Since Sept. 26, 11 transmission towers have been dynamited in the Portland area, eight of them within the past week. Three of the towers were toppled, with damage estimated at $250,000, and unexploded devices were found attached to several other towers.

The Bonneville Power Administration supplies electricity to all city utilities.

There are 750,000 residents in the Portland area. Hodel said if more transmission towers are damaged, emergency measures could be required that would result in blackouts that would last 16 hours a day until towers were repaired.

A letter addressed to the administration arrived at the Portland FBI office Friday. It demanded $1 million and was signed "J. Hawker," which authorities interpret as a variation of the term "Jayhawker" used to describe guerrillas and looters after the Civil War.

The letter said in part: "The extent of damages resulting from the demolition of five of your power line towers Wednesday night is incidental. Our intent is to either collect $1 million or to make you people wish to hell we had."

Hodel said he believed the only motive of the extortionist is money. "There are no political overtones to the letter," he said.

The extortionist set no deadline for complying with the demand but told the power administration to show it was ready to pay by placing classified ads in three newspapers, two of them in California.

Parent-Teacher Day Planned By Logan Elm SD

Following the provisions of the Ohio Code, the Logan Elm Board of Education has provided time for a parent-teacher conference day Oct. 28.

The parents are asked to indicate on the letter sent home with each student the most convenient time for them to attend a conference. The teacher will then confirm the time for each conference.

All parents of students from Kindergarten through the 12th grade are urged to respond to this request. This includes parents with children in the Laurelville, Saltcreek, Washington, Pickaway, McDowell and Logan Elm High School.

Special Prosecutor's Office Quietly Winding Up Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — With attention focused on the Watergate cover-up trial, the special prosecutor's office is quietly winding up its business and preparing to close its doors next spring.

Additional charges probably will be brought, particularly for violations of campaign contribution laws, and there will be a final report, but the cover-up trial clearly represents the climax of the work of the unique office created to deal with the Watergate scandal.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has submitted his resignation, effective Friday. In his letter to Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, Jaworski said he felt the major work of his office had been completed.

In addition, sources within his office have indicated that most of the investigations under way are close to completion.

There had been some discussion within the prosecutor's office months ago about winding up everything but the campaign contribution law investigations.

The award of ambassadorships in return for large contributions, the possibility that Nixon fund raisers had used tactics that would be regarded as extortion, and still other corporate contributions were considered areas that might require another year of investigation.

But for reasons still not clear, the probes are being wound up much more quickly.

Since Archibald Cox built the staff in May 1973, the special prosecutors have brought charges against 44 individuals and 15 corporations.

The individuals include former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, men who wielded unequalled and unquestioned power during the first Nixon administration. All three are defendants in the cover-up case.

Ehrlichman already has been convicted of violating the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, a charge stemming from his supervision of the so-called White House plumbers unit.

Jaworski is leaving the prosecutor's office with his reputation enhanced.

Whether it remains unblemished will depend in part on the outcome of the cover-up trial and the final report his office is obligated to submit to the American people.

Jaworski already has said he could not include all his office learned about Nixon's Watergate role now that President Ford has barred bringing charges against the former President.

But he left one possibility open: he invited Congress to expand his mandate, to require that the final report include the full story of Watergate.

Swiss Nix Ouster Of Foreigners

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss voters have decisively rejected a proposal to deport 540,000 foreigners in the next three years.

Nearly 70 per cent of those voting in Sunday's referendum rejected the constitutional amendment. The vote was 1,689,870 to 878,739. A similar proposal four years ago came much closer to success, with a 46 per cent affirmative vote.

The amendment was proposed by a right-wing group called the National Action Against Over-Foreignerization of People and Homeland. It would have set a limit of 500,000 foreigners living in Switzerland by Jan. 1, 1978.

This would have meant expulsion of 540,000 non-Swiss, most of them farmhands, unskilled industrial laborers, street cleaners, dishwashers and waiters. About two-thirds of these are Spaniards and Italians attracted by better pay than they can get at home.

Although Switzerland has no unemployment, and the migrant laborers do the lower-paying work the Swiss won't do, there is a growing tendency to blame the foreigners for inflation, crime, pollution, overcrowding in the cities and other problems. Seventeen per cent of the 6.3 million people in the country are foreigners, the highest proportion in the world. In addition to the migrant laborers, Geneva is the headquarters of numerous international organizations, and the country is a traditional haven for political refugees.

Police Check Theft Reports

Circleville Police are investigating two theft reports received during the final day of Pumpkin Show.

Charles Lawson, 604 S. Scioto St., said an Audio tape player valued at $125, two speakers and eight stereo tapes were taken from his car while it was parked in front of his house.

The unit was ripped from its bracket.

Two stainless steel mirrors valued at $35 were taken from a truck owned by Danzel Linscott, McConnelsville, while the vehicle was parked on W. Union St. near the railroad tracks Saturday night.

Daylight Time Ends Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten straight months of Daylight Saving Time will end Sunday when the nation goes on standard time for the four winter months.

The nation will set back its clocks one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, the result of congressional action that ended the nation's experiment with year-round daylight time.

Under the new legislation, the nation will stay on standard time until 2 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 23, 1975.

The year-round daylight time experiment was designed to save fuel during the country's energy shortage. The Senate Commerce Committee reported the experiment resulted in about 100,000 barrels of oil per day being saved during the first four months of 1974.

However, that committee said such savings "must be balanced against a majority of the public's distaste for the observance of Daylight Saving Time" during the winter.

The Department of Transportation agreed that some fuel was saved during the winter months but said longer daylight hours may have increased gasoline consumption in March and April by up to one per cent.

The change will not affect eastern Indiana, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa, all of which remained on standard time during the experiment.

STUDENT ASSISTANT—Miss Shelley May, a junior at Marietta College and a student assistant in the admissions office, discusses the new admissions booklet with the college's director of admissions, Jay Showalter.

"... Blaming the supermarket for high prices is like blaming the thermometer for the heat."

That's true. It takes a lot of people to bring food to supermarket shelves. The price you pay covers growing, processing, transporting, warehousing and handling. It all starts on the farm, maybe thousands of miles from here. Bad weather or rising costs of gasoline, fertilizer, or seed all affect the cost of the farm product. And this is just the beginning. From the farm, raw food must be shipped to the processor ... then to warehouses ... and finally to the supermarket. Transportation accounts for about 10% of each dollar shop-pers spend for food at the supermarket! The companies that peel, slice, wash, can, freeze and package food also have faced higher costs ... from raw products to wages to plants and equipment. And it's all passed on to your supermarket. The price your store charges is based on all these costs, plus our own operating expenses. Only about 7/10 of 1% — or 7¢ on a $10 grocery order — is net profit for the supermarket. We know you are concerned about inflation and food prices, and so are we. We'll keep on bringing you quality food at prices as low as we can. But remember that we're at the end of the line — so don't blame the thermometer for the heat!

SNOW ON THE PUMPKIN—The end of Pumpkin Show was hit with a 4-inch snowfall late Saturday, which did little to dampen the spirits of those who stayed to close out the annual event. Sunday morning, the city and county woke up to see a white world. Angie Amey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Amey, sits atop a pumpkin and enjoys the beauty of the scenery.

Kent Trial Jury Selection Gets Under Way

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Jury selection for the trial of eight former Ohio National Guard members accused of civil rights violations in the campus gunfire that killed four and wounded nine students four years ago begins today in U.S. District Court.

Court officials summoned 125 prospective jurors to appear this morning and said more would be called if the venire is exhausted before a jury is seated.

Chief Judge Frank J. Battisti, presiding over the Kent State trial, clamped the lid on pretrial speculation by ordering attorneys and principals not to discuss the case with reporters.

The trial could last several weeks. Both government and defense have lists of 150 potential witnesses for each side. Attorneys indicated they did not expect to call all of them. One attorney estimated the total number of witnesses called to the stand would number about 100.

After nearly three months investigating the Kent State tragedy, a federal grand jury indicted the eight former guardsmen last March 29.

The indictment charged they violated the civil rights of the 13 students killed or wounded in a 13-second gunfire burst May 4, 1970, during a confrontation with demonstrators protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

The indictment named Lawrence A. Shafer, 28, and James D. McGee, 27, both of Ravenna, Ohio; William E. Perkins, 28, Canton, Ohio; James E.

Pierce, 29, Amelia Island, Fla.; Ralph W. Zoller, 27, Mantua, Ohio; Barry W. Morris, 29, Kent, Ohio; Mathew J. McManus, 28, West Salem, Ohio, and Leon H. Smith, 27, Beach City, Ohio.

These men were charged with willfully assaulting and intimidating demonstrators by firing weapons in their direction and violating their constitutional rights.

Convictions could bring a $1,000 fine and prison terms up to life.

The Ohio National Guard went into Kent State May 2, 1970, on order of former Gov. James A. Rhodes. The student antiwar demonstration had resulted in the burning of the Army Reserve Training Corps building on the state school's campus.

Rhodes testified to the grand jury, which conducted the fourth official inquiry into the shootings.

A Presidential commission, a state grand jury called by Rhodes and the Federal Bureau of Investigation also investigated.

The commission disputed claims guardsmen fired in self-defense and called the shootings "unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable."

The state grand jury cleared the guardsmen, saying it found they fired because they had reason to believe their lives were in danger from rock-throwing demonstrators.

The state jury indicted 25 persons, including Kent State students and former students, but the state dropped most of the cases more than a year later.

"Face the Nation" that he still planned to vote for Rockefeller's confirmation despite the recent financial disclosures.

Byrd said, however, that he was glad that the Senate would not be voting immediately on the nomination because "there are many questions that remain to be answered." He said the Rockefeller gifts and loans raise a more serious question than the back taxes.

In New York Sunday, Rockefeller said through spokesman Hugh Morrow that he gave Henry A. Kissinger $50,000 to enable Kissinger to join the Nixon administration as head of the National Security Council.

And, Rockefeller was quoted in an interview in Time magazine as saying that Kissinger was concerned about earning less in Washington than he had been, because "he had just got divorced and had responsibilities to his children and to his former wife."

"I urged him to take the job. He didn't want it. Okay, so I helped him out."

"He put the money in trust for his children. What's more human than that," Rockefeller said.

In the interview, Rockefeller described the gifts he gave to former associates and friends as "a great American tradition."

Dean Still On Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — With four tapes down and three to go, John W. Dean III is returning to the witness stand to relate what happened in the White House after he told then-President Richard M. Nixon about the Watergate cancer growing on the presidency.

The prosecution in the Watergate cover-up trial was expected to finish with Dean today after playing the remaining three White House tapes, in which his voice was recorded along with Nixon's.

Lawyers for all five defendants, John N. Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian, then will have a chance individually to question Dean, the first government witness who has been on the stand since last Wednesday.

Meanwhile, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski said in a television interview Sunday that the entire story of Watergate will come out during the trial.

"Through the evidence at the (cover-up) trial, you're going to have the story of Watergate," Jaworski said on the NBC program "Meet the Press."

The last tape played for the jury in the conspiracy case was of the conversation Dean had with Nixon the morning of March 21, 1974. In that talk, Dean told Nixon that demands by the Watergate defendants might cost $1 million.

Later that day, in the next tape to be played, Nixon conferred with Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean. Their discussion included talk of a pardon for Watergate figure E. Howard Hunt Jr., who had pressed the most persistent money demands.

The next tape was recorded the following day when Nixon, Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Dean and Mitchell discussed strategy for the coming Senate Watergate committee hearings and the complicity of administration and re-election committee officials in the break-in and cover-up.

There had been several previous versions of the March 22 conversation.

The White House transcripts released last April had Nixon saying flexibility was necessary "in order to get off the coverup line."

The House Judiciary Committee,

during its impeachment inquiry, issued its own transcript, containing 16 pages of dialogue not included by the White House.

In the House document, Nixon is quoted as saying "I don't give a shit what happens. I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the 5th Amendment, cover-up or anything else, if it'll save it — save the plan."

The reference to the plan concerned the stance the White House would take to the Senate hearings.

In his interview, Jaworski, who leaves office Friday, also said that he thought Nixon was guilty of "obstruction of justice," and, when asked whether he agreed with President Ford's reasons for granting Nixon a pardon, he snapped "no."

Ford Takes Truman-Like Stance

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford has been told by close associates that he sounds like a Harry S. Truman on the campaign trail. And if Ford hasn't given Democrats much hell yet, he's trying.

Facing heavy odds in attempting to resist an erosion of Republican strength in Congress, Ford is using more strident, more Truman-like rhetoric as the campaign progresses.

Apparently by design, Ford became increasingly partisan last week as he jetted into seven states on behalf of Republican candidates. The change in approach produced a presidential decision Saturday to abandon prepared texts and, as he put it, "talk heart-to-heart, straight-to-straight."

Ford seemingly wanted to say, "straight from the shoulder," but couldn't remember the cliché soon enough — one of the perils of impromptu speechmaking.

But without a text, Ford tends to toughen up his language as he makes his big pitch: Elect Republicans or a Democratic veto-proof Congress of big-spending budget-busters will produce a legislative dictatorship.

Here's a typical sample from a Saturday-night speech in Louisville, Ky.

"Let me put it just as bluntly as I can. If you get a veto-proof Congress, boy, tighten your seatbelts. You are going right through the roof of the United States Capitol as far as the federal treasury is concerned ... The keys to the treasury will be thrown away and the money will pour out unbelievably."

The results of Ford's campaigning to date have been mixed, although he told reporters Saturday, "I've really been encouraged ... I loved those crowds."

The President's audiences, even when sizeable, often have seemed more curious than enthusiastic. And PUMPKIN Show 1974 is history and already the board of directors is planning for 1975 and 1976, the Bicentennial Years ... This was one of the most successful ever according to Ned Harden, vice president.

He noted that more people are attending local fairs and festivals throughout the state than ever before ... The Pumpkin Show received extra nationwide publicity this year because of the World Series of the Pumpkin with Half Moon Bay, Calif., the "Pumpkin Capital of California" including mention on the Paul Harvey news broadcast.

A lot of photographs were taken of Pumpkin Show this year ... The Kodak Clowns ran a small survey Saturday, questioned 30 camera carriers and found out the 30 took anywhere from two to 720 pictures for an average of 68 each ... They "guessed" that about 20 per cent of the people who attend Pumpkin Show carry cameras.

If Harden's guesstimate of over 500,000 people ("I hate to use that figure because nobody believes it," he says), is anywhere near correct, that's an awful lot of pictures.

The photo contest deadline for this year's festival is Dec. 1 ... Entries should be mailed to Circleville Pumpkin Show Inc., Box 228, Circleville 43113.

sometimes they've been small. For example:

—No more than 4,000 turned out Saturday in a Louisville hall that seats 18,000, despite a telephone blitz and local radio advertising.

—Airport rallies at Lincoln, Neb., and Greensboro, N.C., drew barely 2,000 each and a fund-raising box luncheon at Greenville, S.C., attracted but 300, who sat surrounded by tiers of empty seats.

To balance off such disappointments, Ford can point to much bigger, noisier receptions in Sioux Falls, S.D., Indianapolis and Anderson, S.C.

Voter apathy in Watergate's wake may be the reason why Ford has yet to attract crowds as large and enthusiastic as those that customarily welcomed other presidents in recent decades.

Glenn Blasts 'Lies' By Perk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic U.S. Senate candidate John Glenn has accused his Republican opponent, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, of telling the "most scurrilous, malicious kind of lies" in a desperate attempt to bolster his campaign.

Glenn, in an interview Sunday, challenged Perk to prove his charges or "apologize to the people of Ohio for misleading them."

"That's a challenge he can't take up because he knows he can't prove any of the things he's putting out," Glenn said.

The former astronaut referred to a statement put out by Perk Saturday after warrants were issued for a former Glenn campaign aide on bad check charges.

Perk called the check case a "scandal" and charged Glenn with a "Watergate-type coverup." He claimed some of the bogus checks were "redeemed with Glenn campaign money in order to cover up these alleged criminal activities."

Glenn said Sunday the man named in the warrants, Louis Quintero, got no money from the Glenn campaign and contributed no money to it. He said his staff advised people who thought they were bled out of money to report it to the police.

Perk claimed that Glenn learned of Quintero's activities in September, but didn't tell authorities.

Stephen J. Kovacic, Glenn's campaign manager, said Quintero volunteered his services in April, representing himself as a public relations consultant.

He said Quintero opened offices in Spanish speaking sections of Youngstown, Cleveland and Toledo, but his activities apparently ceased in the middle of August.

Kovacic said Quintero was told in a telegram from Glenn's staff Sept. 25 that he was "to have nothing more to do with the Glenn campaign."

Quintero reportedly is wanted in connection with the writing of bad checks totaling as much as $65,000, allegedly for repayment of loans he obtained in the name of the Democratic nominee.

In other political developments, the Columbus Dispatch reported Sunday the latest results of its voting machine poll show incumbent Democratic Gov. John Gilligan and his Republican challenger James Rhodes locked in a dead heat going into the final two weeks of the campaign.

Meanwhile, Rhodes said in campaign stops Sunday that thousands of Ohio school children must walk to school this winter rather than ride buses because of the administration's "adamant refusal to adequately fund Ohio's schools."

Rhodes also said a large number of school districts are operating on split session and at least seven districts are preparing to close for the same reason.

Ohio River Quake Noted

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — No damages or injuries were reported Sunday when a small earthquake shook a wide area along the Ohio River here.

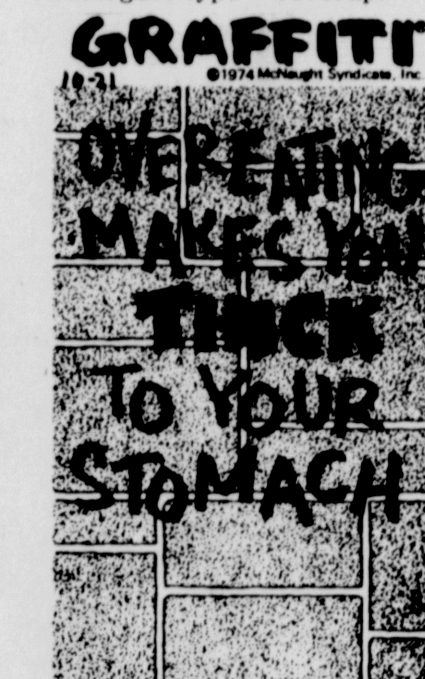

G.A. Bollinger, professor of geophysics at Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va., said the quake was recorded on the seismograph at the school and would have registered between a two or three on the Richter scale.

He described it as "very small and very rare" but said several such quakes have been reported in the area in the last hundred years.

Residents of the area said the vibrations and tremors lasted only a few seconds. At first an explosion was suspected at one of several nearby chemical plants. Later when plant officials reported nothing unusual, it was assumed it was a sonic boom.

President Defends Rocky Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is standing by his nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller, declaring, "I'm still convinced he would make a good vice president."

Ford, fielding questions from five newsmen aboard Air Force One late Saturday, was asked whether any conservative Republicans had urged him to withdraw the increasingly controversial nomination.

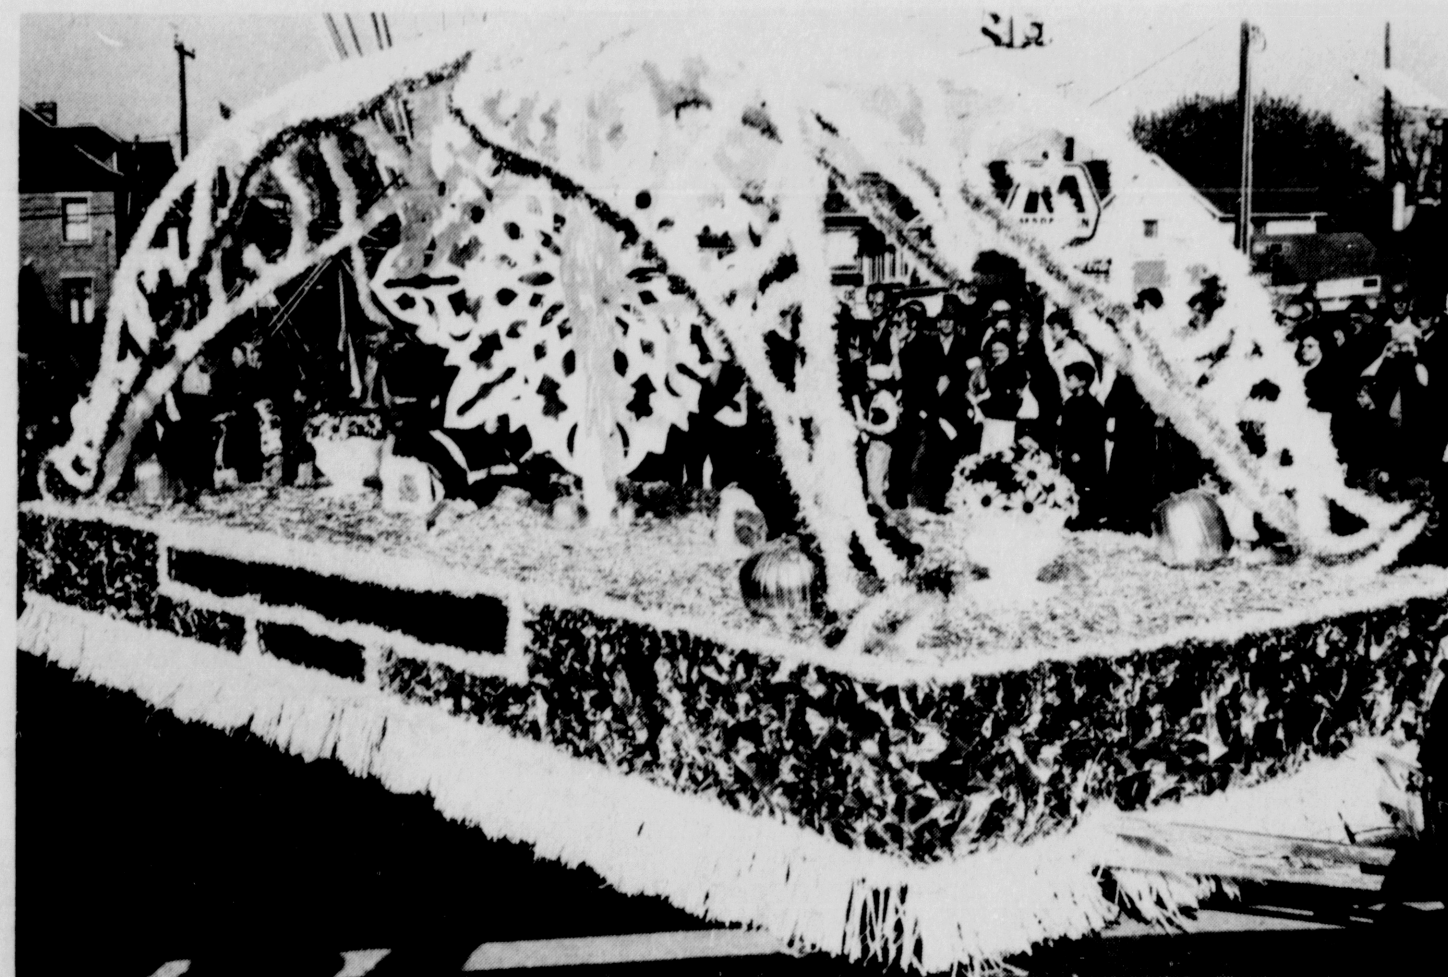

"I wouldn't say anybody seriously," the President responded, implying that such advice had been received.

Standing in shirtsleeves in the aisle of the plane as it brought him home from a campaign trip to Louisville, Ky., Ford held what amounted to an informal news conference.

Ford said he expected Rockefeller's nomination to be confirmed before the President's planned trip to Japan next month. This would seem to be out of the question since Ford tentatively plans to leave the country Nov. 17 and Congress does not return from its election recess until the following day.

Meanwhile, Rockefeller was described by a prominent Senate Democrat as "a man who has great experience, tremendous ability."

The comment came from Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, who said in an interview Sunday on the CBS program

GRAND CHAMPION—The float, "Frost on the Pumpkin" was declared the grand champion by Pumpkin Show judges. Built by James and Belle Sowers, the float was sponsored by 84 Lumber Co. It was the first grand champion float for Mr. and Mrs. Sowers in their 12 years of building the decorative mobile displays. The girls riding the float were Denise Mercer and Krista Arledge. First place winners in each division were: Church of the Nazarene, Church Division, "Christ is the Key"; YMCA, School and Youth Organizations, "Pals Forever-Friends Always"; Pickaway Township Fire Department Auxiliary, Fraternal and Civic, "Community Happiness"; Pleasant View Baptist Church, Special Class, "Lily of the Valley"; and Circleville Merchants, Merchants and Commercial, "Pumpkin Beauties".

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slipped marginally lower in slow trading today, as companies reported third-quarter earnings and several commercial banks announced cuts in their prime rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.56 at 653.32, recovering from earlier lows when the index was down almost 4 points.

Earnings reports for a number of companies fell short of year-earlier levels during the third quarter and indicated further softening of the economy, brokers said.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was off .08 at 68.09.

Declines edged advances 586 to 511 among 1,514 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, whose broad-based index sagged .09 to 37.99.

Transamerica Corp. topped the Big Board's volume list, steady at 5%.

Ford Motor, which disclosed various cost-cutting measures today, fell 1% to 33 3/4.

Imperial Oil A was the most active Amex issue, down 1/4 at 27 1/2.

SURPRISE—Circleville and Pickaway County residents were surprised Sunday morning to find the first snowfall of the year blanketing the ground. The snow, which started late Saturday night, accumulated to from two to six inches in spots but was gone by the afternoon. Many tree branches were not as lucky as this one on N. Court St. when the weight of the snow broke them off. The snow caught county crews unaware, as they were called out to salt bridges and some roads. The snow, hitting the warmer roads, caused more of a driving problem by turning into a heavy fog.

Trio Arrested In Theft, Arson

Three former Circleville residents were arrested Friday, by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Detective Don Thompson for grand theft of an auto and arson.

Radcliff and Thompson went to the residence of the three, who were all living together in Columbus, at the time of arrest.

George J. Grooms, 18, 201 W. Mill St., turned himself in to authorities Thursday stating that he was presently AWOL from the service. He was placed in jail awaiting proper service authorities to pick him up.

Thompson then went to the Columbus home and arrested Ricky Lee Petty, 20, Columbus. Sheila Grooms, 19, Circleville wife of George Grooms, turned herself in to sheriff's authorities, Friday morning.

The trio stole a car from Columbus, Sept. 23 bringing it into Pickaway County, stripping it and setting it on fire.

They then stole a car in Circleville belonging to a Columbus resident, during Pumpkin Show, Wednesday. Detective Thompson found the car in Petty's garage stripped, ready to be taken to the junk yard.

Thompson noted that while returning Friday with Petty after recovering stolen items, Petty attempted to escape. Petty went through the city parking lot when an unknown man halted Petty and held him until Thompson and Deputy Bill Dountz arrived.

The department would like to know the name of the man who aided them. George Grooms was bound to grand jury on two $3,000 bonds, for grand theft and arson; Petty two for $4,000 bonds, for grand theft and arson and Sheila Grooms, signed a recognizance bond for $1,000.

Six Injured In Weekend Accidents

Six people were injured in four weekend traffic accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Hazel Gahn, 61, Route 1, Chillicothe, was referred to a physician for treatment of forehead lacerations in a two-vehicle accident 3 p.m. Saturday on the Circleville-Kingston Road.

According to the report, she was following a pick-up truck and farm wagon operated by Margaret Enoch, Route 1, and attempted to pass when Mrs. Enoch made a left turn.

Ms. Gahn was charged with driving left of center.

The first of two accidents on Route 23 occurred 7:50 p.m. Friday just north of Country Road 511.

Philip Boles, 47, New Carlisle, was southbound on Route 23 and Bernard Cornette, 46, Cattleburg, Ky., could not stop his vehicle in time when Boles was slowed by traffic.

Cornette was charged with failing to maintain assured clear distance ahead. Vicki Lohmes, 19, Urbana, a passenger in the Boles vehicle, suffered neck and shoulder injuries.

Three people were hurt in a three-car pileup on County Road 511 just south of the Big Bear Supermarket entrance 2:50 p.m. Saturday.

John Moreland, 33, Columbus, was headed south in one vehicle followed by Dora Hsiao, 38, Columbus, in another.

Bernard Engle, 54, Amanda, was driving north on the road when he went left of center, hitting the Moreland car in the left side, and then the Hsiao car.

David Logan, 6, Columbus, a passenger in the Moreland car, was treated for forehead injuries; Ms. Hsiao was treated for abrasions; and a passenger in her car, Dori Hsiao, was treated for leg injuries.

Engle was charged with driving while intoxicated; having no operator's license; and driving left of center.

Deputies arrested drivers of two cars involved in an accident 8:20 p.m. Sunday on Route 23, just south of South Bloomfield.

Michael O'Donnell, 19, Grove City, was northbound on Route 23 in the driving lane, and Howard Kirk, 42, Reynoldsburg, was also northbound in the passing lane.

O'Donnell apparently attempted to change lanes, hitting the Kirk car and knocking it into the median strip.

O'Donnell was charged with changing lanes without caution, and Kirk was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Mary Kirk, a passenger in Kirk's auto, was treated for a back injury.

Research Decline

Although it remains popular in Congress and elsewhere to criticize defense spending, reports that the Soviet Union is pulling ahead in missile superiority are causing some searching looks at U.S. weapons research.

The Pentagon says its research is falling behind, affected both by inflation and reduced appropriations.

Defense Department officials might be suspected of trying to feather the nest, which is not uncommon in Washington, but they have the facts to support their claim. In the last decade total defense spending was declined by about one-fourth, with basic research down about 35 per cent.

The picture is familiar. After each war, almost without exception, the nation has gone through a period of disdain for the military and neglect of defense preparedness.

Even with the announcement that the Soviets have demonstrated the capacity to launch from subs missiles capable of traveling almost 5,000 miles — twice the distance of the farthest traveling U.S. sub-based projectile — few alarms are sounded in the capital.

A loud and clear warning is called for. The kind of military hardware stockpiled today in armaments closets does not permit much catching up once hostilities begin.

Football's His Game

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — How about Jerry Ford for the Carnegie Medal for Heroism?

First citation:
"Gerald R. Ford, President of the United States, picked up his southpaw pen and performed one of American history's most valorous acts by signing his name to a proclamation pardoning former President Richard Nixon."

In all the annals of Presidential pardons there has been nothing even approximating this single act of political courage. It was signed and sealed though he guessed at the time that it might cost him 20 points in the Gallup and Harris ratings. It did. Also it cost him the friendship of a lot of his old chums in the Congress — pals he was going to need badly to support him in his efforts to keep the U.S. from sliding further into the mire of the Nixon Depression.

Furthermore, he absolved Nixon peremptorily after saying he'd wait for the outcome of court cases and subpoenas that had been served on the ex-Prez. On top of that, Ford excused Nixon for crimes which Nixon has never admitted he committed.

Second citation:
He had the raw courage to hold up the telecast of the third game of the World Series while he repeated a belittling speech on the economy. That meant that he intruded on what about 80,000,000 Americans considered their civil rights — the right to see a ballgame.

He did this in face of the terrible fate that befell "Heidi," when that juvenile telecast was put on the air before the conclusion of a soul-stirring and gizzard-shaking pro football championship.

Ford is the new Heidi.
But surely he careth not a damn. He's going to keep making that talk on the economy until he understands it.

Presidents have been treating baseball with gloved-handed respect since old Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators invited President Howard Taft to throw out the first ball in 1913. With the precedent established, few Chief Executives have dared reject an invitation to have their office exploited by a crassly commercial game.

But some have liked it. Woodrow Wilson had managed the Princeton ball club at one time and knew the game well. After he left the White House, he'd frequently attend games at Griffith Park under extraordinary circumstances. His Pierce Arrow convertible would be driven on to the field and parked in foul territory between first base and right field. Wilson, immobilized by the stroke that had hit him while still in the White House, would watch the game from the back seat of the open car. A batting-practice catcher always sat on the front bumper of the car, to block any lines drives headed Wilson's way. The ex-President would not have been able to duck such shots.

Warren G. Harding had once had a piece of a minor league team in Marion, O., and was as much of a fan as his predecessor. He kept a box score and downed bags of peanuts during a game.

Calvin Coolidge was a real baseball square. Knew from nothing. At the end of the ninth inning of the seventh game of one of the most enthralling World Series ever played, the 1924 meeting of John McGraw's Giants and young Bucky Harris's Senators, and with the great (but twice-defeated) Walter Johnson coming in as a relief pitcher, and the score tied 3-3, Coolidge got up to leave.

His wife grabbed him by the seat of the pants.

"Where are you going?" she demanded.

"Game's over," Silent Cal said.

"End of the ninth inning."

Herbert Hoover loved baseball. He, too, had been a college manager, at Stanford. One of his great anguishes as President was the day in 1931 when he appeared at Shibe Park to see a game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals and the whole congregation rose to boo him and chant, "We Want Beer!" Prohibition still had its heel on the neck of the thirsty, and Hoover was blamed for everything in those dreary days.

FDR was a jaunty fan. Did a lot of arm-waving and scorecard-fanning. Harry Truman could take it or leave it, but never dared miss an opening day to throw out the first ball. He was a switch-thruster: he alternated being a southpaw and a northpaw.

Dwight Eisenhower stunned baseball to the roots by announcing he would not throw out the first ball of 1953. Worse, he said he had a golf date that day. Fortunately for him, the game was rained out, so he made it to the ballpark the next day. Had he not, he, instead of a future in-law, might have become the second President ever impeached.

JFK had played the game all his life, of course; LBJ liked being the top banana in the Presidential box, surrounded by fellow politicians. Nixon, always pining to be one-of-the-boys, would never have thought of missing being used as a stooge, as long as there was a ballclub in Washington.

Now along comes Jerry, the finest athlete ever to occupy the White House. And he pops up in the World Series.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Debt repayments on installment loans are taking most of the discretionary income of some consumers. Layoffs are mounting. Factories are slowing the production lines.

What do these characteristics suggest? Well, certainly not a recession, if you use the standards of the administration. President Ford says there's no recession. So does his commerce secretary, Frederick Dent.

Earlier in the year Dent referred to the economic decline as an "energy-crisis spasm." Last week, after the third straight quarterly decline in the Gross National Product, he explained "the spasm continues."

What really is occurring, Dent explained, is "sideways waffling," a term that will be variously interpreted as an effort to hide the truth, a lack of awareness, or a frightening attempt at euphoria that recalls the reassuring statements of the early Hoover administration.

Mysteriously, the definition of "recession" disappeared with the onset of what once used to be called recession. The most popular definition was two consecutive quarters of declining Gross National Product.

An ordinance proposing to amend Circleville's zoning law was held to first reading by city council. A public hearing on the amendment was conducted in conjunction with the regular meeting. The primary issue concerned house trailers in the city.

Three airmen stationed at Lockbourne Air Force Base and a Circleville resident were arrested by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department in conjunction with a burglary at the local American Legion Post. Walton Spangler was the county sheriff.

Lawrence Reid was named to fill a vacancy on the Westfall Board of Education. He was the Muhlenberg Twp. clerk of trustees.

The Goldwater Girls, under the direction of Mrs. Don Ringer, were to be included in the entertainment at the rally and covered dish dinner scheduled by the Pickaway County Women's Republican Club.

Runaway Bay Is Accurately Named

RUNAWAY BAY, Jamaica (AP) — Runaway Bay on Jamaica's north coast is said to have been named for the runaway slaves in the 17th and 18th centuries who fled to Cuba in canoes. Once they arrived, the Spanish would immediately baptize them so they couldn't be returned to the "British heretics" without imperiling their immortal souls.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Polyps have been taken out of my nose three times. After the operation, I feel fine. Then the polyps return and my nose becomes blocked again. Why do they keep returning?

Mr. T. L. T., Pa.

Dear Mr. T.:

Nasal polyps are caused by infection of the sinuses, allergies, or a combination of both.

Polyps are grape-like swellings in the inner lining of the mucous membrane of the nose.

When they grow large, they impair breathing through the nose because of their size.

Immediately following surgery the free passage of air through the nose is so comfortable that many patients fail to return for further treatment. Herein lies the reason for the return of polyps.

If the underlying allergy and sinus infection remains untreated, polyps will form again and continue to grow until they obstruct free breathing.

It is important that the cause of polyps be treated after the polyps have been removed.

My doctor refuses to give me water pills to lose weight. My friends take them and lose as much as three pounds a day.

Miss F. E., N.J.

Dear Miss E.:

Since you wrote this letter, have you noticed that those same friends have regained their lost weight?

The temporary loss of weight by dehydration is not a substitute for loss of weight by sensible dieting.

Diuretics, or "water pills," are very valuable tools of modern medicine. They are carefully chosen for very specific conditions.

They are not used casually by doctors.

Unfortunately, many of these pills are purchased without prescription, and are traded by "friends" who have no awareness of the fundamental principles of weight reduction.

Man In Uniform

By JIM BISHOP

My brother John would look like a cop, even if he wore a grass skirt. The hard Irish kisser, the belly, the dignified swinging stride all spell "fuzz." And yet, in a family of policemen, he was always the softest touch. Grandpa Tier called him "puddin' head."

It is common for brothers to look different, to be disparate in their tastes and ambitions. We two, who huddled together on the cold nights for many years, could not be further apart.

My mother told me that when he was almost two, he wet his pants. She was about to spank him when he shouted through tears, "Jim did it in my pants." A kid like that can't be all bad.

He had blondish wavy hair; mine was black. He had pink scrubbed skin; mine was dark. He had his friends; I had mine. Our parents were stern disciplinarians, but when he played around a bonfire and mother smelled smoke on his good suit, I was hit for it.

When I asked why, she said, "You should have been watching him." I was neat with my clothes and shoes; he wasn't. Someone told him about girls and, overnight, he became the Beau Brummell of the neighborhood.

Nothing was too fine for Johnny to wear, including my father's best ties. Deep inside, he had a respect for the police uniforms worn by grandpa and my father. In addition, he was rank conscious.

When he enlisted in the 112th Field Artillery, John was a rear rank buck private, but, when he had a formal photo made, he sewed sergeant's stripes on.

After that hitch, he enlisted in the Coast Guard and served aboard the destroyer "Cassin" out of New London. He walked head up, arms swinging in uniform. Like his brother, he made his youthful mistakes, but his best was when he had "True Love to Bubbles" tattooed on his arm.

A lot of "Bubbles" followed that Bubbles. I feel now that he made out better with girls because he was so courtly that he forced them to become aggressive. They were making bold moves and wondering why.

He was painfully law-abiding. When the rest of us were jamming second-hand accelerators to the floor, Johnny was doing 25 miles per hour, bestowing smiles on pedestrian girls who had the right attributes.

If he was apposed to any specific thing, it was study. His sole aspiration was to become a policeman and buck for a pension. He met an attractive redhead named Anna Gryniak and, overnight, Johnny's harem went down the drain.

He became soulful. He went to church regularly. He even tried to learn Polish phrases so that he could impress Anna's mother. Anna was a little more than attractive; she was ambitious. She didn't think much of a policeman's life.

The marriage was in a church at Sixth and Cole Streets, and I couldn't understand a word the priest said whether it was in Latin or Polish. Anna's father made pink gin for the reception. I almost fell in the bridal veil when it was passed around.

That was a long time ago. Their three children have children. They lived nice—not rich—and bought their radios and furniture on the time-payment plan. John became a railroad detective.

He was happy. I was busy clawing my way to the stars. He finished a day's work, had a good steamy dinner, and sat holding Anna with one hand and a bottle of beer with the other. To his way of thinking, this was the ultimate; there was nothing further he wanted out of life.

Anna scrimped enough for a down payment on a house. She and Johnny lived upstairs. My sister Adele and her husband lived downstairs. It is a symbol of John's logic that when Adele claimed a pipe was leaking from the second floor down onto her brand new wallpaper, John drew himself up to full dignity.

"Adele," he said. "It isn't leaking on anything upstairs, so you get it fixed." We were that kind of family. Through the years, the most careful driver in the world bought many cars. I cannot recall one that did not sustain a busted transmission. John always had a friend who could fix it for half-price on his own time.

When it was repaired, he drove off happily and, two blocks away, the transmission fell out. He had that kind of luck. Our lives are planets apart. I have drive; he has none. But I wouldn't trade him for the original Abel.

Nine years ago, I asked Irving Cowan, president of the Diplomat Hotel and Country Club in Florida, to help Johnny attain his old ambition. If you get down that way, you'll see him pacing his beat, a polite, slightly aloof man—in uniform.

Whatever he had in mind when we were kids, he finally made it...

Subdivision Gets Water Again

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Water service was restored today for the 200 homes in the Forest Hills subdivision. Licking County Common Pleas Court Judge Winston Allen Friday granted the City of Heath authority to supply the water and bill the Forest Hills Utility Co. for the service.

Allen's action followed failure of the company to comply with a court order issued Tuesday directing it to provide water to the subdivision. The state attorney general's office filed contempt of court charges against the utility Friday.

City Teachers Attend In-Service Workshops

WORKSHOP—During Thursday's in-service day, Nicholas Drive Elementary teachers participated in a workshop entitled "Mastering The Basic Math Facts". Shown with Dr. Charles W. Smith Jr. of Ohio University are Floreen Heeter, Mary Elsea, Beth Smith and Karen Adkins.

The Circleville City Schools conducted three workshops for all elementary teachers on Thursday.

The workshop for primary teachers, "Mastering The Basic Math Facts," was conducted by Dr. Charles W. Smith Jr., Associate Professor in the School of Curriculum and Instruction at Ohio University, and Dr. Paul S. Malcolm, Assistant Professor in the Mathematics Department at Ohio University.

Emphasis was placed on every-pupil response techniques, techniques for total class involvement, and mastery techniques in basic facts.

Weekend Traffic Toll Hits Only 4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio motorists apparently have recorded one of their safest weekends of the year, following two of their deadliest.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported that only four persons died over the weekend, tying the third weekend in January and the fourth weekend in June as the safest of the year.

In contrast the first two weekends of October were among the year's worst, with death tolls of 20 and 23, respectively.

The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY
WAUSEON — Robert L. Uloth, 28, of Metamora, in a two-car smashup on U.S. 20 in Fulton County.

SATURDAY
CLEVELAND — Loucinda Cleveland, 31, of Cleveland, in a one-car crash on a Cleveland street.

SIDNEY — Ronald D. Hickman, 31, of Sidney, in a one-car accident on a Shelby County road near Sidney.

OTTAWA — Daniel J. Niemeyer, 19, of Fort Jennings, when his auto crashed on a Putnam County road near Ottawa.

Parent-Teacher Conferences Set

County Superintendent Edward Martin has announced that parent-teacher conferences are scheduled Monday in all the county schools.

Conferences will be held from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. in all buildings in the Logan Elm and Westfall School Districts. Teays Valley District will schedule conferences in the elementary schools from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. and the junior and senior high school from 2 until 8 p.m.

Parents are encouraged to arrange for conferences with their children's teachers on that date. Students will not be in attendance at any of the county schools in order that teachers will have the opportunity to discuss students' progress with parents.

Bus drivers will be attending a safety workshop for bus drivers at the Jackson Elementary School. Registration will be 8:30-9 a.m. with the program lasting from 9 until 12. Arrangements for the program are being made with the county office and the Division of Transportation, State Department of Education.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

One winter's day, Art, a teenager, was amusing himself by hurling snowballs at passing cars. One snowball missed its target and struck a pedestrian across the street, injuring his eye. Could Art be held liable for assault and battery?

In a court hearing, his lawyer said no.

"Art had no wrongful purpose toward this man," went the lawyer's argument. "Hitting him was purely accidental."

However, the court ordered Art to pay damages. The court invoked the doctrine of "transferred intent," by which an original wrongful intent—in this case, the desire to hit the passing car—was transferred to the accidental consequences.

This widely recognized doctrine is based on the law's reluctance to let a wrongdoer get off scot-free. It has even been applied in a case of mistaken identity. Thus:

A man sneaked up behind another man, thinking he was an old antagonist, and bashed him on the head. Actually, the victim happened to be a total stranger.

But that didn't help the first man when he was haled into court afterward to face a damage claim. Applying the doctrine of transferred intent, the court had no trouble finding him liable.

On the other hand, the doctrine will not apply if there was no wrongful purpose in the first place.

Suppose, for instance, that a woman who is being chased by a mugger throws a rock in his direction. And suppose the rock misses the mugger and hits an innocent bystander.

Under these circumstances, the woman could not be held responsible for injury to the bystander, because she had acted in legitimate self defense. With no wrongful intent to begin with, there would be nothing that could be transferred into legal liability.

Bancorporation Declares Dividend

George Armstrong, president of The Ross County National Bank, an affiliate of American Bancorporation, has announced a 3 per cent stock dividend payable to shareholders of American Bancorporation, Columbus-based bank holding company. The Ross County National Bank has offices in Adelphi and Kingston.

The stock dividend is payable to shareholders of record November 30. The payment date is December 9.

Armstrong reported that net income of American Bancorporation reached $201,522 for the nine months ended September 30, compared to $154,915 for the same period in 1973. Consolidated assets of American Bancorporation were $53 million as of September 30, an increase of 12 per cent from the year earlier figure of $47 million.

The six affiliate banks and four non-bank subsidiaries of American Bancorporation reported consolidated operating earnings of $278,895 for the nine months ended September 30. Operating income was 54 per cent higher than 1973 operating income of $818,008. Income before extraordinary items was $1.19 in 1974, compared to $.13 in 1973.

Cuyahoga Race Hot, Heavy

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—One of the most hotly contested races in Ohio this year is in the southern and western third of Cuyahoga County, the 23rd District where voters will elect a new congressman for the first time in 20 years.

Seven candidates seek to succeed Republican William E. Minshall of Lakewood, who is retiring.

The campaign lines up as a three-way battle. The principals are state Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma; state Rep. George E. Mastics, R-3 Cleveland, and Dennis Kucinich, Cleveland councilman who is running as an independent on the premise that one cannot avoid Watergate-type politics in either major party.

The contest also includes two attorneys and two businessmen alike only in their determination to be giant killers.

The four are Arthur L. Cain of Strongsville, a patent attorney; Bohdan A. Futey of Parma, director of Cleveland's bicentennial preparations; Hugh J. Gallagher of Lakewood, a specialist in industrial promotions, and William H. Maloof, a commercial parking lot owner.

Mottl, 40, perhaps best known as the state senator who sponsored the Ohio lottery bill, wades into the fray with the backing of the state's largest newspaper, the Cleveland Plain Dealer. A 16-year veteran of politics, Mottl has been a senator since 1969, a state representative and a Parma councilman.

The 1974 23rd District campaign centers on tactics to tilt successfully against the twin windmills of corruption in government and inflation.

Mottl would control prices, wages and profits and raise the personal federal income tax exemption from $750 to $1,000. He would use receipts from an excess oil profits tax to finance research into alternative energy sources.

Mastics, a state representative since 1967, is wont to appear on the doorsteps of 100 potential constituents on an Indian summer campaign Saturday with his blonde wife, Carole, and one of five children in tow.

"Balance the budget," he responds to yet another inflation-weary suburbanite. Mastics claims the U.S. debt at $500 billion is $90 billion more than the combined debt of the rest of the world.

Foreign and giveaways have cost the nation $22 million a day for nearly 30 years, he says.

An act that bears Mastics' name provides for drug rehabilitation centers, drug education in Ohio schools and harsh punishment for peddlers.

Mastics describes another of his bills, one dealing with campus disorders, as one "to allow students wanting an education to get one without the disruptive activities of radicals and troublemakers."

Kucinich, a three-term councilman, who will turn 28 this month, wants to go to Congress Ralph Nader-style. He wears the epithet maverick, applied by the media, like a battle ribbon.

"Keep this in mind about your story," he told a reporter as he rushed out a door. "I'm going to be probably the only independent in the country elected to Congress this year."

Kucinich offers a threepronged attack on what he sees as a textbook cost-push inflationary spiral: $10 more federal income tax exemption for every 1 per cent increase in the government's price index; export controls to minimize distortions in domestic market prices and a 95 per cent tax on excess corporate profits to force business to increase sales by lowering prices.

But, it is in independence as the antidote to Watergate politics that Kucinich feels he has a gut issue.

"Watergate happened to hit the GOP, it could have hit every party," said a Kucinich staffer. "Everybody running for anything this year is holding out the image most closely linked to Dennis—courageous, outspoken, maverick populist."

"Dennis wants to go to Washington to show we can learn from Watergate, as the guy who won't play by the cozy rules of the club, the guy nobody can shut up."

Kucinich's legal fight to overturn a $98 million Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate increase went to the Ohio Supreme Court this month. The suit challenges the utility's right to set rates based on reconstruction costs that automatically escalate with inflation.

Last month he won headlines as chairman of a council committee whose investigation of conditions at the Warrensville workhouse resulted in resignation of the city health director and replacement of the workhouse commissioner.

His major party opponents eye Kucinich respectfully for another reason. Minshall rarely had real opposition in winning 10 consecutive terms in the House until 1969, the year of the Nixon landslide, when Kucinich cut the veteran's plurality to 2 per cent.

Keep America beautiful, but keep America alive!

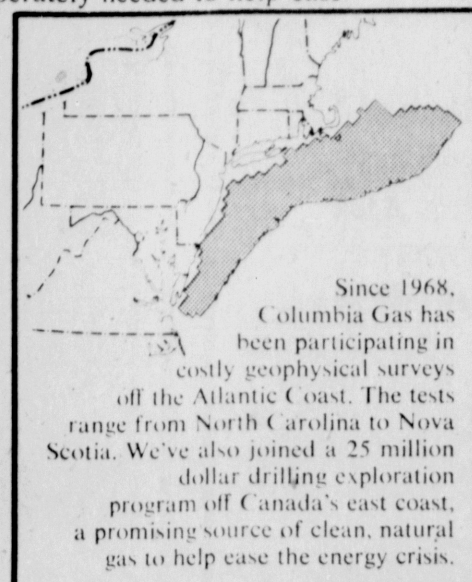

Some of America's most beautiful resort areas lie along the Atlantic Coast. And no one wants to mar their beauty. It's much too valuable a natural resource.

But, there's another tremendously valuable natural resource over the horizon along the Atlantic Coast. Energy. Energy that is desperately needed to help ease our nation's worsening energy crisis.

We must not sacrifice one resource for the other.

And we needn't. Modern techniques for under-water drilling and delivery of fuel have eliminated the danger of permanent environmental damage. An offshore drilling rig won't even be seen from the shore. And offshore production will reduce the need for increased tanker traffic.

All domestic sources of energy must be developed to meet our growing national fuel needs. The potential of the Atlantic outer continental shelf is great and can be realized in an environmentally safe manner. The Atlantic coast areas depend on a prosperous America. And a prosperous America depends on energy.

Since 1968, Columbia Gas has been participating in costly geophysical surveys off the Atlantic Coast. The tests range from North Carolina to Nova Scotia. We've also joined a 25 million dollar drilling exploration program off Canada's east coast, a promising source of clean, natural gas to help ease the energy crisis.

COLUMBIAGAS

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Pregnant Daughter Refuses To Wed

DEAR ABBY: My daughter graduated from college. With honors, yet, but listen to what this dumbbell did. She moved in with her boyfriend with the understanding that if they both decided they were right for each other they would get married.

Now she thinks she's pregnant, but she has not told her boyfriend because she wants him to marry her for HERSELF not because there is a baby on the way. Have you ever heard of such stupidity from a college graduate?

Thank God we don't live in the same city because I keep thinking of things I'd like to say to her and it's getting harder and harder to keep my mouth shut.

I wish I could talk some sense into that girl's head. She never misses your column. Maybe you can.

TEARING MY HAIR

DEAR TEARING: Your daughter hasn't asked me for any advice, so I'm not about to give her any. But I have some for you. Quit tearing your hair over a grown daughter of legal age who is determined to live her life the way she wants to. It's her privilege. Right or wrong.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two children under five. I was married, but it didn't work out.

For a year now I have been going with a very nice and lovable older man. My only bad break is that he is married and living with his wife.

He says he loves me very much and one day will marry me, but right now he feels sorry for his wife and he can't talk divorce to her or she will crack up. (She's not very strong. They have five kids.) He tells his wife he's working late and comes over here for supper nearly every night. My kids call him "Daddy," but they're confused because when they go to bed at night their "Daddy" is here, but he's never here when they wake up in the morning.

I have no one to talk to about this. My mother would never understand. Please advise me.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: I think you're wasting your time. Get smart and say goodbye to this part-time "Daddy." Look for an unattached man your kids can say "Good night" and "Good morning" to.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this in utter disgust for the way guys are starting to dress now. It makes me sick to my stomach to see men walk around in platform shoes and midriff blouses with their navels showing! What on earth would make a man want to dress that way!

Are people so taken in by the weirdo fashion designers that they will buy anything as long as it's new and considered "in"?

I don't mind a little imagination in men's wear, but some of these flowered shirts and feminine looking duds are ridiculous. Men don't look like men anymore.

Now that I got this off my chest, I feel better.

FEMALE

DEAR FEMALE: Not ALL men are buying the above-described attire. And as for your complaint about men not looking like men, could it be because some WOMEN look like men?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LU WITH A LULU OF A PROBLEM": Yes, for every problem there IS a solution—even if it's only learning to live with it. When you pick a lemon, make lemonade.

Conservation Promoted

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The refusal of Americans to make necessary sacrifices has contributed to the nation's worsening inflation and energy shortages, a federal transportation expert told an area conference here Friday.

"Once the oil began to flow again, everybody forgot there was a crisis," said John E. Hirten, deputy administrator of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA).

He said a major step toward easing oil shortages could come from "a balanced, integrated intermodal approach to urban transportation."

"We are currently dependent upon foreign petroleum sources for 25 per cent of our needs, and it is projected to increase between 48 and 50 per cent in 1980," Hirten said.

"Even at 1973 prices this would have thrown our balance of payments way out of line, but with current increases it can have disastrous results," he said.

Paperwork Swamping Policemen

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Police say thousands of unfiled and untranscribed crime reports are delaying some investigations here by more than a month.

Officials estimate 3,000 reports telephoned in by police officers are waiting to be typed and turned over to detectives for investigation because of a shortage of typists. About 30,000 completed reports are stacked at Central Police Station awaiting filing because of a shortage of clerks.

Until copies of the reports are made, insurance companies will not pay claims for stolen properties and the state will not reimburse victims of food stamp thefts, police say.

Police Lt. James Birmingham said the department has 29 women to take care of records, 10 less than the minimum needed to make the system work.

Uncompleted reports also keep police from spotting patterns such as 27 cars damaged and buglarized in the first district Sept. 25, Birmingham said. Those reports were not typed until last week.

A force of temporary office workers has been hired to work on the backlog, while others try to keep pace with the 800 new cases reported daily, Birmingham reported. He said the staff is transcribing the backlog at a rate of 160 cases a day but might have to be kept longer than expected.

The department hired 11 new typists recently and is looking for more, he added.

Man Makes Own Electric Car

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Dick Bassett says he took a basket of surplus military electrical parts and a junk auto body and turned them into a little electric car that hums along at 40 miles an hour for up to 50 miles.

"My wife and daughters drive it continuously," he said. "It's an awful lot cheaper than a gasoline-driven car."

"The idea of an electric car isn't anything new, but putting one together and driving it around town sure is," said Bassett, 48, an engineer at Sandia Laboratories.

Bassett said the car costs a little over half-a-penny per mile to operate, based on the current price of electricity. He said he has about $1,000 invested in the car. Nearly threefourths of the cost is in the 10 lead-acid storage batteries, five each in what had been the car's engine and trunk spaces.

"It's a weird feeling, sitting at a stoplight in the car. When the accelerator isn't depressed, there's no sound. No power is consumed. You always wonder if you're really going to move when you hit the pedal," Bassett said. "My wife has a problem with it while shopping. People in parking lots constantly walk in front of the car, because they can't hear it coming."

"We also have trouble getting service at drive-in bank windows, because tellers depend on an intercom to alert them that a customer is coming. We usually wind up blowing the horn."

The idea of the car, he said, had been in the back of his mind a long time.

"I really decided to do something about it when the energy crisis came. The car body had to be light and boxy, so I bought a 1963, four door foreign compact sedan. I began by stripping everything out of the car—motor, radiator heater, hoses, the works."

"It weighed about 1,595 pounds to begin with. I stripped about 300 pounds off of it," Bassett said.

He acquired a surplus aircraft generator from a California firm — a 28 volt, 300-amp generator that weighed about 80 pounds and delivers about 36 mechanical horsepower.

Bassett discarded the car's clutch assembly and bolted the generator directly to a fourspeed transmission he rebuilt.

"I rigged a flexible coupling, but I was counting on the synchromesh in the transmission to let me shift gears without a clutch. It worked out real fine, but we never use first gear. It's such a high gear ratio, it just spins the wheels or tends to lift the front end of the car."

Controlling the speed proved another problem.

"That was solved by rigging the accelerator pedal to sequenced micro switches, which are used to operate surplus, 400-amp, 28-volt relays," he said. "That gives the car three electrical speeds in each gear. The pickup is fantastic. And when you let up on the accelerator pedal, it becomes almost freewheeling."

The batteries are charged by plugging a charger into a connector in the grill.

"An overnight charge is sufficient to restore even a completely dead battery," Bassett said.

Former Nixon Aid Raps Press Role

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—A former aide to ex-President Richard Nixon criticized the news media Sunday for what he said was biased coverage of the White House.

Bruce Herschensohn singled out the television networks and said the daily coverage of former administration officials going to and from court for the Watergate proceedings was a form of "20th Century lynching."

Speaking at the closing session of a symposium conducted here by the Center for the Study of the Presidency, Herschensohn said Nixon was in a now-win situation with the news media.

"If we gave out news, we were regarded as paranoid," Herschensohn said. "If not, we were criticized for not informing."

Also participating in a discussion of the media and the presidency, Dr. J. Leiper Freeman, political science professor at Vanderbilt University, said those who criticize the media the most need to analyze and study it more.

The center, a nonprofit New York-based group devoted to "the study of the world's most powerful lay office," held its three-day symposium at the historic Spiegel Grove Estate of former President Rutherford B. Hayes.

The symposium was sponsored by Heidelberg College in nearby Tiffin, Bowling Green State University and the Hayes Foundation.

Predominant theme arising out of the meetings was an apparent need to strengthen the two-party system.

Jerald terHorst, who served briefly as President Ford's press secretary, told the 135 academicians Saturday night that recent third-party movements are indications of a weakening of the two-party system.

"Independents are sufficient to constitute a major third party," he said.

TerHorst, who resigned because of the pardon of Nixon, said Ford is in a position to restore faith in the system.

He said the President has the respect and admiration of many Democrats, but also could strengthen his own party by influencing conservative Democrats and independents toward the Republican cause.

Cleveland Shootings Leave 7 Dead

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Seven persons were shot to death in six incidents during the weekend in what police called one of the bloodiest 24-hour periods in the city's history.

Cuyahoga county's coroner for the last 38 years, Dr. Samuel Gerber, said he couldn't recall as many fatal shootings in the same time period.

"No one knows what to do to stop the slaughter," Gerber said. "Hardly a day goes by without a homicide."

Dead were three teenage boys, a teenage girl and three men, all Cleveland residents. The toll did not include the girl's unborn child which died with her.

The deaths brought the city's homicide total this year to 236, police said. The count stood at 288 at this time last year.

Police said Terry Jackson, 18, was shot to death at about 2 a.m. Sunday as he walked with a girl companion. Police were told a man came up to the couple, pushed Jackson against a building, and, after a brief argument, shot him and fled.

Witnesses told police 14-year-old Allen Orcutt was shot in the back Sunday while riding in a car with friends. Police said a youth was in the back seat playing with a gun when someone reached for it and it fired.

James Ottrix Jr., 13, was shot by a man chasing him at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday, records showed. Witnesses said the man fired two shots into the youth as he lay on the ground.

Official reports said Vanessa Stephenson, 17, and Charles McKinney, 31, were killed at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday when three men and a woman entered the girl's home and broke up a card game with gunfire. The coroner reported Miss Stephenson was six months pregnant.

Forty-two-year-old Joseph Smith was slain by one of two masked gunmen who robbed six women playing cards with him at about 3 a.m. Sunday, police said.

John Paris, 24, died in surgery Sunday with a gunshot wound of the chest after being shot at home at about 6:30 p.m.

The coroner was to rule today in the death of Marlene George, 22, who died Sunday after being shot in the stomach July 13. She had been treated at hospitals several times since the shooting.

Probe Hospital Embezzlement

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ky. (AP) — An investigation into charges of embezzlement at Hardin Memorial Hospital was to continue today with a grand jury reconvening and taking evidence at Elizabethtown.

Strict secrecy has surrounded the investigation. Former hospital Director Don Davis said in May that embezzlement went on during the term of a previous hospital administrator.

Davis said he learned of the embezzlement through a report by an accounting firm that audited hospital records.

Inventors Sag In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — If necessity is the mother of invention, then September must be its stepchild.

September is traditionally a slow month for inventions, reports the Intellectual Property Owners, a nonprofit organization in favor of a strong patent system, from its review of patents issued through the years.

The winter months have seen the most significant inventions. That's when Thomas A. Edison did some of his best work. The Wizard of Menlo Park staked claim to his electric lamp in January 1880 and his phonograph on Feb. 19, 1878.

Inventor Samuel Colt patented his revolving gun February 1836, magician Harry Houdini's diver's suit for quick escape was filed with the U.S. Patent Office on March 1, 1921, and Alexander Graham Bell revolutionized our lives with his telephone on March 7, 1876.

The only significant invention IPO turned up for September was an automatic reading system devised on Sept. 12, 1961, by Kenneth R. Eldredge of Palo Alto.

BancOhio Corporation Reports 13 Per Cent Earnings Increase

BancOhio Corporation reported an increase in operating earnings (before securities transactions) of $728,000 or 10 cents per share for the three months ended September 30.

Operating earnings for the quarter were $5,166,000 or 71 cents per share, as compared to $4,438,000 or 61 cents per share for the corresponding quarter in 1973. For the nine months ended September 30, 1974 operating earnings were $16,467,000 or $2.26 per share, an increase of 13 per cent over 1973's nine months results.

BancOhio's earnings for the quarter improved in spite of a $2 million provision for possible loan losses in excess of the estimated minimum provision calculated under the five-year moving average formula. This extra addition to the consolidated loan loss reserve reduced the third quarter income by 14 cents per share. Philip F. Searle, BancOhio Corporation's president and chief executive officer, said "we believe this addition to the loan loss reserve is a realistic approach based on present economic conditions."

Included in operating earnings for the third quarter was approximately $694,000 or 9 cents per share resulting from the change in accounting for installment loan income from the straight line method to the "sum-of-the-digits" method, approved by BancOhio Corporation's Board of Directors in June, 1974. The impact of this change in accounting method for the three quarters ending September 30, 1974 was approximately $1,418,000 or 19 cents per share.

Net income, after security losses, for the quarter ended September 30, 1974 was $4,520,000 or 62 cents per share, as compared to $4,631,000 or 64 cents per share for the comparable period in 1973. For the nine months ended September 30, 1974 net income was $20,724,000 or $2.84 per share and includes $6,208,000 or 85 cents per share representing the cumulative effect of the accounting change on years prior to 1974. Net income for the months ended September 30, 1973, was $14,281,000 or $1.96 per share.

Searle said that BancOhio Corporation's loan-to-deposit ratio of 66 per cent is one of the lowest among the nation's top 50 banking organizations and is a major indicator of BancOhio's quantitative and qualitative control of credit during 1974. Since September 30, 1973 a period of unprecedented inflationary pressures and continued consumer and business loan demand, BancOhio's consolidated loans only increased 4 per cent to $1.6 billion.

Cincinnati Man Killed

LAWRENCEBURG, Ind. (AP)—An early morning crash claimed the life of a 27-year-old Cincinnati man Sunday. Police said James W. Vaughn died when his pickup truck hit the wall of a railroad overpass.

A female passenger was treated and released.

No Rapid Transit Seen For Cities

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Preliminary studies indicate cities the size of Cincinnati and Indianapolis cannot expect to see the development of rapid transit systems in the near future, a transportation planner told a tri-state conference here over the weekend.

Richard Bourque, assistant director of transportation planning for the Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana Regional Planning Authority (OKI), made the remarks during a keynote address on long-range planning.

Each such system would cost approximately $2 billion, Bourque said, noting that the federal government has not indicated support for funding on such a massive scale.

"Frankly, I don't see it in the next 20-25 years unless we can tie it to something like the proposed Cincinnati-Columbus-Cleveland service," he said, referring to the railroad passenger that once linked the three cities.

There have been proposals that Amtrak reestablish the route.

OKI approves all federally-financed programs for 13 counties in the three states.

Bourque said transportation problems must continue to be attacked by regional authorities.

200 Workers Return To Sandusky Plant

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Some 200 workers returned to their jobs at the Chrysler Products plant here after ratifying a new three-year contract Sunday to end a six-week strike.

The workers, members of the Sandusky Chrysler Employees Association, voted 100-22 in favor of the new pact, which replaces one that expired June 1. Details of the agreement were not disclosed.

I would like to thank the citizens of Pickaway County for the encouragement given me during the Circleville Pumpkin Show. Congratulations to the Pumpkin Show Committee and the law enforcement agencies of our county for a job well done.

Businessmen See No Deep Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite inflation, rising unemployment and the high cost of money, the nation should get through the coming months without a severe economic slump, say businessmen surveyed by The Associated Press.

The business leaders — nearly a 100 retailers, manufacturers and bankers from around the country — were queried during the month before President Ford's economic address to Congress.

Inflation remains the country's biggest economic problem, the businessmen say, but unemployment is a growing cancer and is expected by the businessmen to become the next major problem.

President Ford won general praise for what many called his cautious, prudent approach to economics, though many said they'd reserve judgment to see results. In general, they said Ford's economic summit meetings helped focus public attention on inflation, a critical need many businessmen said.

"Half of economics is science," says Maurice Ferre, Miami mayor and president of Maule, Inc., a construction company. "The other half is human nature, which outweighs the so-called economic truths."

"If people believe there will be a recession, there will be."

As might be expected, most of those businessmen interviewed say more business and less government is the long run answer to inflation.

"Rather than relief from government I think our real need today is relief of government," says Ken Smith, executive with Jantzen, Inc., a Portland, Ore., clothing manufacturer.

"The government is the biggest consumer and the consumer still controls inflation," says Robert Duckworth of the First National Bank of Arizona.

A balanced budget is the first step toward easing inflation because it will reduce government demand for funds, thus freeing money for business expansion, said most businessmen questioned. Increased productivity and expansion, will cut inflation, they said.

"There are only two reasons for inflation: too much money or too few goods," says William Dillard Sr., an Arkansas retailer. "We need more producers."

But, says Gabe Rutherford, president of an Arkansas steel fabricating firm: "The talk about cutting federal spending really means cutting construction. That would mean a bigger slowdown."

Despite growing evidence of a recession — consumer hesitancy, concern over inventories, rising unemployment — the businessmen still say inflation is the nation's chief economic headache.

"I don't think inflation is going to change its upward trend or stop anytime soon, because I don't think prices are going to stop rising," says Lewis Kohn, chairman of Maryland's Rochsild Kohn Department Store.

But, says Kenneth Ross, economist with the First National Bank of Arizona: "Ford may be in a little better position than President Nixon. There are some blips on the radar screen that may mean we are starting to come out of the problem."

Some are more skeptical, however. "I think it's unrealistic to think we can stop inflation without too severe of a recession," says Bill Bright, a West Virginia greeting card manufacturer.

Deny CIA Involved In Viet Protests

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. embassy today denied that the Central Intelligence Agency is involved in demonstrations against President Nguyen Van Thieu and accused North Vietnam of a "crudely obvious attempt to exploit the dissent."

The embassy statement was issued after another anti-Thieu demonstration Sunday in Saigon in which a police jeep was burned and the National Assembly building was stoned. There were peaceful antigovernment rallies in Hue, Can Tho and other towns.

The embassy cited Viet Cong statements in the past two weeks charging that the CIA is giving support to dissident political groups in South Vietnam.

"The United States does not encourage, nor does it support in any way, any political faction in Vietnam," the American statement said. "These accusations are utterly groundless and totally false."

The statement also cited recent Viet Cong and North Vietnamese military attacks. It said by destruction of roads, bridges and other important installations, North Vietnam is "seeking to increase the economic suffering of the South Vietnamese people in the hope that it can exploit politically the resulting misery."

The Viet Cong on Oct. 12 claimed that the U.S. government was trying to infiltrate agents into the dissident South Vietnamese political groups to "manipulate and turn" the dissent to the benefit of the United States.

The Communists charge that the United States is conducting a "double-faced" policy: pushing Thieu to make reforms to strengthen his position and at the same time trying to develop a position of influence with the opposition in case Thieu is overthrown.

U.S. officials contend that the Viet Cong is conducting the "double-faced" policy: assailing the United States for its support of Thieu and at the same time accusing the United States of preparing a fallback position should he be ousted.

Some analysts say they believe the Viet Cong is laying the groundwork, should Thieu be forced out, to refuse to cooperate with his successor by claiming that the United States was behind the change. So far, however, there is no suggestion that the anti-Thieu movement is strong enough to topple him.

Man Said Suicide As Police Approach

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — North Canton police reported Sunday that Kenneth Schultz, 21, of Warren, Mich., shot himself to death as officers approached him to question him about a drugstore holdup.

The incident occurred in a wooded area where police had staked out the robbery loot after receiving a tip that two men had been seen hiding it there.

Police said Schultz was AWOL from the Air Force.

Set School Committees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two committees will be named to try to help the state Board of Regents find solutions to problems in Ohio's graduate schools and its Instructional Grants Program.

James A. Norton, chancellor, reported Friday that students finishing graduate schools at state universities are having trouble finding jobs, and that declining numbers of needy students are seeking aid under a five-year-old program that helps them pay tuition and general fees.

The regents authorized creation of Graduate Policy Advisory Program Committee and directed it to report back no later than Jan. 1, 1976.

Hamilton Police Seek Shotgun User

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton police today continued to seek the person who fired three shotgun blasts into a bar late Saturday night, wounding three men in the hail of buckshot.

The men escaped serious injury. Police said a man in the bar said he had been involved in an argument with another man at another tavern earlier in the evening.

Cattle Inventories Show New Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price crunch on livestock feed continues to take a toll on feedlot cattle inventories, new figures by the Agriculture Department show.

As of Oct. 1, USDA said Friday, cattle being fed for slaughter in the 23 major beef states totaled 9,149,000 head, down 24 per cent from the same date last year and 22 per cent below Oct. 1, 1972.

Officials said it was the smallest Oct. 1 feedlot inventory of cattle since 1967. The decline has been going on for months, however, because of high prices for corn and other feed in relation to what cattle sell for on the market.

That does not mean less total beef, however. In fact, USDA says the beef supply currently is up substantially from last year, and apparently will continue for some time as producers cut back on herds.

The additional beef is coming from cows and other cattle which have been fed little grain, including steers and heifers coming directly off grass pastures.

The report Friday said sales of grain-fed cattle in the July-September quarter from feedlots totaled 5,522,000 head, down 7 per cent from a year earlier and 26 per cent below the third quarter of 1972.

Looking ahead, officials said, fourth-quarter sales are expected to total 5,294,000 head, 18 per cent below October-December last year, and down 22 per cent from the same period in 1972.

Another report by USDA showed the retail price of beef — estimated on an all-cut basis — dropped 3.5 cents a pound in early October from the week ended Sept. 28.

The report said that in the week ended Oct. 5 beef sold in retail stores at an estimated average of slightly under $1.37 per pound, down from more than $1.40 a week earlier.

Both the farm share and the middleman portion of what consumers paid for beef were down during the week, the figures showed.

Rhodes Wins Enquirer Endorsement

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former Gov. James A. Rhodes was endorsed for the Ohio gubernatorial race Sunday by The Cincinnati Enquirer.

The newspaper, on its Sunday editorial page, said it backed Rhodes because of the achievements made in education and industrial development during his two terms.

The Enquirer said the Republican candidate, who is facing Democrat John J. Gilligan, "is more correctly attuned to Ohio's needs and its people's aspirations."

The endorsement contained praise for Gilligan's successes during the past four years, but credited Rhodes for major advances in a wide range of areas.

"Ohio blazed many trails during the Rhodes years—in historic preservation, in highway safety, in corrections and mental health, in industrial safety, in public works, in urban affairs," it said.

The editorial said Rhodes was responsible during his eight years as governor—from 1963 to 1971—for investing more state operating money in elementary and secondary education "than all the governors from 1915 to 1963."

Industrial development, the newspaper said, resulted in "Ohio leading the nation in the expansion of commercial and industrial facilities" and the attraction of $13 billion in new capital investment.

The editorial said the development program was responsible for providing 750,000 more jobs in the state during Rhodes' two terms.

Moore Would Aid Coal Talks

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — West Virginia Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. says he would be willing to help with coal contract negotiations if he is asked to do so by both sides.

Moore, interviewed by WTRF-television, said he would not have the slightest hesitation to join coal operators and United Mine Workers representatives at the bargaining table if he can help "resolve the matters in difference" as he did in 1971 when the last coal contract expired.

Moore noted there is less than one month left in the current contract and he understands discussions have not yet begun on the economic and monetary union demands.

OSU Leads Grid Wins

BEST-EVER?—Football followers from across the nation are calling the 1974 edition of the Ohio State Buckeyes the best group of players ever assembled in the wake of their 49-9 crunching of Indiana Saturday. And one of the reasons is the explosive passing attack directed by Cornelius Greene. Brian Baschnagel (48) hauled in six of Greene's throws for 111 yards. Champ Henson (38) looks like he would have been a good target on this play.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Woody Hayes is coming close to calling his top-ranked Ohio State football team his greatest ever.

"This team can do some things the others couldn't," he said after the Big Ten co-leaders hammered visiting Indiana 49-9 Saturday.

Then is this squad better than his unbeaten powers of 1954 and 1968?

"Now, I'll tell you that in five games. But up to now, this is the most versatile I've ever had," Hayes added.

The Ohio State coach is delaying his assessment for five weeks. That's the regular season finale with third-ranked Michigan, almost certain to be for the conference championship again. The Buckeyes and Wolverines share the Big Ten lead with 3-0 records.

Once more the 6-0-0 Buckeyes showed off their varied attack, crushing the 1-5-0 Hoosiers with 333 yards rushing and another 235 through the air. Indiana managed 266 total yards.

"We really learned a lot," Indiana Coach Lee Corso said.

"They (Ohio State) play fair and honest. They've got class. This is a national championship caliber team. I haven't seen anyone better," he added. "We're young and they're terrific," Corso said.

Hayes admitted an early bid by Archie Griffin to become the Big Ten's champion career rusher for all games was "loused" up by big plays by teammates.

"(Cornelius) Greene loused one play up," Hayes said. "He's only supposed to get a first down. So he runs 30 yards to the Indiana six. Then another time he calls a pass and throws a (53-yard) touchdown to (Dave) Hazel."

Hayes ordered his first offense into action one more time early in the fourth quarter.

"They went out on the field and Arch was going to run until he got the record," the Ohio State coach explained.

Griffin bagged the record on the first play. In all, he rushed for 146 yards and two touchdowns, running his career total to 3,321 yards, six more than Otis Armstrong of Purdue had in 1970-72.

Griffin and Greene combined for 446 total yards and figured in five touchdowns, forcing Corso to call them super athletes.

"What can you say about Griffin that hasn't already been said?" asked Corso.

The Indiana coach said of Greene, "He adds new dimension to their offense. He can get through holes that are not even diagrammed on the blackboard."

In other Ohio college football action, Miami extended its unbeaten string to 18 games and improved its Mid-American Conference record to 2-0 by whipping Bowling Green 34-10.

That set up a crucial conference clash next weekend between the Redskins and the Toledo Rockets, who share the top spot in the MAC standings with a 3-0 mark. Toledo and all the other MAC teams played outside the league Saturday.

Miami, despite an offensive lag in the second and third quarters, had little trouble in beating the Falcons. Quarterback Sherman Smith rushed for 109 yards and one touchdown as Miami jumped ahead 14-0, saw the lead dwindle to 14-10, and then scored 20 points in the final period.

Toledo lifted its overall record to 4-2 by rolling over Dayton 38-27. The Rockets took an early lead on quarterback Gene Swick's pass to Don Seymour in the end zone and touchdown runs by Swick of three and 18 yards.

Utah State edged Kent State 27-24 on Al Knapp's 42-yard field goal with 1:44 remaining to play.

Ohio University evened its season record at 3-3 by trouncing Morehead State, Ky., 49-10, as quarterback Rich Bevely ran for three touchdowns and passed for another.

Independent Cincinnati swamped Wichita State 43-0 after charging ahead early by turning three pass interceptions into touchdowns.

In Ohio Conference play, Baldwin-Wallace and Otterbein remained deadlocked for the Red Division lead with 2-0 marks after victories Saturday.

B-W trounced Heidelberg 35-14 to give Coach Lee Tressel his 100th collegiate coaching triumph. Otterbein downed Muskingum 28-10 as fullback Steve Schnarr piled up 111 yards in 22 carries and scored two touchdowns.

A battle of Red Division cellar-dwellers saw Marietta (1-1) topping Wooster (0-2), 21-13.

Mount Union topped Capital from first place in the OC Blue Division with a slim 9-7 triumph on Bob Wire's 22-yard field goal in the final period. The victory put Mount Union into a tie for the division lead with Ohio Wesleyan at 1-0. Capital dropped to a 1-0 mark.

Wittenberg and Denison battled to a 10-10 tie in another Blue Division contest. It was the first division game of the season for the Tigers.

Reserves Zip Unioto 37-0

The Circleville reserves scored every time they had possession of the ball in the first half and coasted to a 37-0 win against Unioto Saturday.

The Tiger reserves never punted in the game and stalled Unioto's only threat on the 15-yard-line as the game ended.

Credit for the win was given to the Tiger offensive line of Alan Van Vliet, Earl Stevenson, Brian Price, Luke Lawhorn, Art Davis, Rusty Holbrook, Danny Marshall, and Tom McGuire. The scoring was evenly divided.

Mearle Logan ran 25-yards for a TD and added an extra point run; Frank Merrill scampered 35 yards with a pass from Brad Allison, 50-yards with a punt return, and carried for two extra-point runs; Bill Mogan powered 45 yards off tackle and kicked an extra point; and Tom McGuire scored on a 10-yard pass from Brian Fath.

The Tiger reserves are now 6-1 for the year.

Cards Only Unbeaten in NFL

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
And then there was one ... barely. The surprising St. Louis Cardinals are now the only undefeated team in the National Football League — the Minnesota Vikings and New England Patriots were knocked from the ranks of the unbeaten Sunday — and Coach Don Coryell is enjoying his team's success to the fullest.

"The pressure of being unbeaten doesn't make any difference from a coaching standpoint, but I like it," said Coryell, in his second year at St. Louis since leaving San Diego State. "I wouldn't be in the business if I didn't."

Quarterback Jim Hart sparked the Cards to a 31-13 lead early in the fourth quarter, and they withstood two one-yard touchdown runs by Houston's George Amundson for the victory.

Hart capitalized on a pair of Oiler fumbles and threw touchdown passes of six and 40 yards to Earl Thomas in a 1:32 minute span of the second quarter to spark the Cards.

Meanwhile, the Detroit Lions dropped Minnesota from the list of the unbeaten, upsetting the Vikings 20-16, while New England's balloon finally was burst by Buffalo 30-28. Elsewhere in the NFL, the Baltimore Colts whipped the New York Jets 35-20, the New Orleans Saints upset the Atlanta Falcons 13-3, the Dallas Cowboys beat the Philadelphia Eagles 31-24, the Pittsburgh Steelers edged the Cleveland Browns 20-16, the Washington Redskins defeated the New York Giants 24-3, the Miami Dolphins slipped past the Kansas City Chiefs 9-3, the Denver Broncos defeated the San Diego Chargers 27-7, the Los Angeles Rams topped the San Francisco 49ers 37-14 and the Oakland Raiders beat the Cincinnati Bengals 30-27.

Lions 20, Vikings 16
Bill Munson was the big man for the Lions, completing 22 of 32 passes for 276 yards. Ten of his passes were caught by wide receiver Ron Jessie.

Detroit's victory was its first over the Vikings in 14 meetings going back to 1967.

Bills 30, Patriots 28
New England's Sam Cunningham raced 75 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage, but after that it was a struggle for the Patriots, who had stunned football experts by winning their first five games.

"That run scared me," said Buffalo quarterback Joe Ferguson, who threw for three TDs. "I'm just glad we forgot about it and came right back," he added.

Ferguson threw touchdown passes to Paul Seymour and O.J. Simpson within the next 11 minutes to put Buffalo in front, and New England never drew even.

Rams 37, 49ers 14
James Harris sparked in his first start at quarterback for the Rams, passing for three touchdowns and running for another. He completed 12 of 15 passes for 276 yards.

San Francisco wide receiver Dan Abramowicz caught two passes and set an NFL record with at least one reception in 97 straight games.

Dolphins 9, Chiefs 3
"It was a tough yard," said Miami Dolphins fullback Larry Csonka, whose one-yard plunge with 17 seconds remaining beat the Kansas City Chiefs 9-3. Csonka, who didn't practice all week because of an injured left knee, gained 80 yards in 17 carries.

Raiders 30, Bengals 27
"There was never any doubt in my mind," Oakland Coach John Madden said of his decision to punt with his team at the Cincinnati 32-yard line with three minutes left. Oakland trailed 27-23 at the time.

Saints 13, Falcons 3
Bobby Scott, given the starting nod at quarterback when Coach John North benched Archie Manning during the week, tossed a 36-yard scoring pass to Paul Seal for the only touchdown of the game as the Saints upset Atlanta for their first victory in 19 games on the road.

Steelers 20, Browns 16
Pittsburgh struggled past the Browns as quarterback Joe Gilliam managed to complete just five of 18 pass attempts for the Steelers. Two second-half field goals by Roy Gerela were the difference.

Redskins 24, Giants 3
Veteran Sonny Jurgensen threw three touchdown passes to pace the Redskins, who took advantage of frequent New York mistakes, including a punt which was blocked by Mike Hull.

Cowboys 31, Eagles 24
Dallas snapped a four-game losing streak by beating the Eagles. Roger Staubach's one-yard TD run midway through the fourth quarter was the margin of victory.

Colts 35, Jets 20
Baltimore's Lydell Mitchell set an NFL record by carrying the ball 40 times, one more than O.J. Simpson's standard set last year. He gained 156 yards and scored one touchdown in leading the Colts to their first victory of the season.

Broncos 27, Chargers 7
Running back Floyd Little, slowed all season by a nagging ankle injury, scored one touchdown and set up another by galloping 72 yards with a short pass to lead Denver past San Diego.

Top Colleges Post Victories

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

After four upset-filled weekends, the college football scene returned to normal Saturday ... and in this jumbled season that may be the biggest upset of all.

Only three members of The Associated Press Top Twenty came out losers and two of them bowed to other ranked teams.

Tenth-ranked North Carolina State suffered a 33-14 licking at the hands of unranked arch-rival North Carolina, but No. 9 Arizona was topped by No. 17 Texas Tech 17-8 and No. 13 Kansas underwent a 56-0 humiliation at the hands of No. 12 Nebraska.

Meanwhile, the runaway 1-2 teams in The AP ratings rolled to easy victories — top-ranked Ohio State crushed Indiana 49-9 while runner-up Oklahoma bombed Colorado 49-14.

Elsewhere, third-ranked Michigan shaded Wisconsin 24-20, No. 4 Alabama trounced Tennessee 28-6, No. 5 Auburn outscored Georgia Tech 31-22, No. 6 Southern California struggled past Oregon 16-7, No. 7 Notre Dame flattened Army 48-0 and No. 8 Texas A&M eased past Texas Christian 17-0.

In the Second Ten, 11th-rated Penn State rallied to beat Syracuse 30-14, No. 14 Florida turned back Florida State 24-14, No. 15 Arizona State whipped Utah 32-0, No. 16 Texas leveled Arkansas 38-7, No. 18 Maryland blanked Wake Forest 47-0, No. 19 Miami of Ohio belted Bowling Green 34-10 and No. 20 Tulane ripped The Citadel 30-3.

It was a weekend of comparisons, although no one has played both Ohio State and Oklahoma. Wisconsin, however, played Ohio State a week ago and was routed 52-7 while making it much closer Saturday against Michigan.

"They're both fine teams," said Coach John Jardine. "Ohio State was as fired up for us as anyone has ever been. Whether Michigan was fired up or not, I don't know."

Colorado has played Oklahoma and Michigan, losing to the latter 31-0 four weeks ago.

"Michigan is a fine team but Oklahoma is better," said Coach Bill Mallory. "If they want to play each other, it's all right with me."

Indiana's Lee Corso and Colorado's Mallory couldn't compare the 1-2 teams directly, but they had some thoughts, anyway.

"This is a national championship caliber team," Corso said after Ohio

State's Archie Griffin romped for 146 yards and two touchdowns and became the top ground-gainer in Big Ten history.

It was Griffin's 16th consecutive 100-yard regular-season game, one short of the national record held by Oklahoma's Steve Owens. Griffin also passed the century mark in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, but that doesn't count in the NCAA record book.

Griffin's output boosted his career yardage to 3,321, surpassing the mark of 3,315 set by Purdue's Otis Armstrong a couple of years ago.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma's Joe Washington, a junior like Griffin, rambed for 200 yards and four touchdowns in just 18 carries against Colorado as the Sooners chewed up 594 yards of real estate on the ground.

"There can't be a better team than Oklahoma," said Mallory. "They were awesome. If there's a better back in the country than Washington, I haven't seen him. What moves and balance he's got! Their offense is fabulous. If they play like they played against us, I don't see anyone beating them."

Michigan's Dennis Franklin threw an eight-yard touchdown pass to Greg DenBoer to snap a third-period tie against Wisconsin and the Wolverines also got scoring runs from Chuck Heater and Gordon Bell.

Willie Shelby ran 13 and 19 yards for Alabama touchdowns and set up one of Calvin Culliver's two scores with a 41-yard punt return.

Auburn's stingy defense was riddled for 22 points by Georgia Tech but still came up with the big plays. Chuck Jones, a freshman, blocked a punt and ran it 42 yards for a touchdown and recovered a fumble to set up another tally.

One of the 160 yards gained by Southern Cal's Anthony Davis produced a touchdown and Chris Limahelu tacked on three field goals enabling the sluggish Trojans to defeat Oregon.

Fullbacks Wayne Bullock and Russ Korman split four touchdowns as Notre Dame whipped Army and David Walker completed seven of nine passes for a whopping 220 yards in the Texas Aggies' triumph over TCU. One of them was a screen to Ronnie Hubby, who galloped 60 yards to score.

Texas Tech stifled Arizona's high-powered offense, holding the Wildcats to 273 yards, well below their average. Curtis Jordan and Randy Olson came through with key interceptions and the Red Raiders also recovered two Arizona bobbles.

North Carolina scored three times in the first period on runs of 36 yards by Mike Voight, three by Chris Kupec and 10 by Boom-Boom Betterton and in topping N.C. State.

Penn State's Tom Shuman ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third against Syracuse; Nebraska's Dave Humm fairly sizzled with 23 completions in 27 tosses — including 15 in a row — for 230 yards and three scores against Kansas; Florida came from behind in the final period to down Florida State on a 63-yard touchdown pass from Don Gaffney to Alvis Darby and Tony Green's 12-yard run.

Arizona State freshman Dennis Sproul threw a pair of scoring passes as the Sun Devils trounced Utah; another rookie, Texas fullback Earl Campbell, gained 109 yards on just eight rushes, one of them a 68-yard touchdown gallop, in the Longhorns' rout of Arkansas; Bob Avellini passed for 157 yards and two touchdowns as Maryland stomped Wake Forest, which has lost its last four games by 196-0.

Ron Carpenter tallied twice as Miami of Ohio whipped Bowling Green and Steve Foley rushed for 142 yards, including a 47-yard touchdown, as Tulane sank The Citadel.

Your Horoscope Television Schedule

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Weighty matters will need to be given sufficient thought now; also a great deal of patience. Don't try to rush things through. Neither fear failure. Stress your innate optimism.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An average day generally, but you may be given some additional responsibilities; may also face some complex situations. Handle all with your usual equanimity.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You may find yourself in the midst of controversy. Don't let it bother you. Rather, get together with opponents and, using your innate foresight, you can solve all issues nicely.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A thoughtful review before beginning day's program will speed up its fine potentialities for success. Especially favored: teachers, students, all engaged in the medical professions.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Advance a new idea, enlist the help of others to put it across. Under prevailing influences, you should win new benefits, advance your status.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Stellar influences only fairly generous, so you will have to provide your own momentum to carry on. Neither too many problems nor much opposition indicated.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): This looks like one of your better days. You should be the center of attraction in whatever circle you find yourself — business or pleasure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Excellent Mars influences! New trends may result in an agreement where there was only opposition before. Do make the most of such fine opportunity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Jupiter influences not too friendly. Avoid getting in over your head — especially where you happen to be on unfamiliar ground.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A favorable day for negotiations, working toward contract settlements. Parties of the second part now appreciate what you have to offer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Mixed influences. Stay out of speculative ventures and be exceptionally careful in dealings with the opposite sex.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): The Piscean tendency to seek the unusual and offbeat will be much in evidence now. You'll find much satisfaction in areas others overlook.

YOU BORN TODAY are an intense and lively individual — a real "firecracker" in both your personal and professional life. Your attitude toward associates is extremely outgoing and you possess an unusual flair for the dramatic. With all this, you are within, a softly sensitive person, caring deeply for others and actually suffering over "man's inhumanity to man." No matter what career you adopt, you will, almost inevitably, make time to devote yourself to causes designed to improve the common lot. Career-wise, you would make an intense and dynamic actor, a brilliant attorney or jurist, a powerfully persuasive writer, a highly sensitive musician — in almost any field. Birthdate of: Franz Liszt, world-renowned composer; Sarah Bernhardt, French actress; Joan Fontaine, film star; Giovanni Martinelli, Ital. opera singer.

Brothers Win Munich Contest

MUNICH (AP) — Anthony and Joseph Paratore, Boston-born duo-piano team, won first prize in the piano division of the Munich International Competition. Anthony, 29, and his brother, 25, will receive a cash award of approximately $4,000 and contracts with at least three major West German broadcasting companies. They will be invited to perform in Vienna next season.

The Paratores studied at the Juilliard School with Mme. Rosina Lhevinne, who was the first to suggest that they play as a team.

Mozart To Midwest

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The 1974-75 season of four operas by the Minnesota Opera will open Dec. 13 with a party for singers and guests and will include a new Christmas opera as John Phillip Sousa might have seen it.

"Gulliver," a story of three of Gulliver's voyages, each written by a different composer, opens Feb. 22. Mozart's "The Magic Flute" in English will open April 4 and Conrad Susa's "Black River," a view of 1890 in the Midwest, will close the season in May.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service tonight is airing "Drink, Drank, Drunk," a one-hour look at the lush life. It's must-see viewing for anyone concerned about the major disease called alcoholism.

Produced by WQED in Pittsburgh and hosted by Carol Burnett, its main emphasis is on helping families and employers of problem drinkers spot the symptoms of alcoholics and suggesting how to best cope with alcoholics.

But the heavy booze might also do well to watch it, if only for a very funny, yet razor-sharp sketch about an alcoholic and his non-drinking, nagging wife. It was written by the husband-and-wife team of Joe Bologna and Renee Taylor.

They're contestants in a game show, "You Waste Your Life," in which the ceaselessly cheery M.C. (Ron Carey) notes the game is played for high stakes: "You can lose your wife, your family, your house, your self-respect and your drapes."

Contestant Bologna, bleary-eyed and in a bathrobe, tells about himself this way: "Well, when I started drinking, I was a Supreme Court Justice. Then I landed a fascinating job cleaning rugs, and now I'm semi-retired and living off my mother's savings."

Points in the game are scored by the back-and-forth psychological tactics common in situations of this kind: Lies by the drunk, nagging by the wife, remorse, hate, forgiveness, rage and so on.

At one point she threatens to leave if he touches the gargoyle again, adding, "I'm taking all the furniture and HUBERT."

Extortionist Blasts 11 Power Towers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — State, local and federal authorities have begun preparations to counter possible power blackouts in case an extortionist carries out his threat to dynamite more transmission line towers in the Portland area.

Bonneville Power Administration officials, area police and the FBI reviewed emergency plans Sunday after the power administration refused to pay a $1 million ransom demanded in an extortion letter.

Officials from area military installations and the Oregon National Guard were briefed on the situation.

Portland General Electric Co. and Pacific Power and Light, major city-based utilities, fired up reserve combustion-powered and steam plants to provide extra electricity if needed.

City officials asked for approval to order overtime shifts for workers already converting a civil defense shelter into a communications center for emergency services.

"What we probably face is an outage where the entire area might be totally without power for a few hours up to a day or two," said power administrator Don Hodel.

Since Sept. 26, 11 transmission towers have been dynamited in the Portland area, eight of them within the past week. Three of the towers were toppled, with damage estimated at $250,000, and unexploded devices were found attached to several other towers.

The Bonneville Power Administration supplies electricity to all city utilities.

There are 750,000 residents in the Portland area. Hodel said if more transmission towers are damaged, emergency measures could be required that would result in blackouts that would last 16 hours a day until towers were repaired.

A letter addressed to the administration arrived at the Portland FBI office Friday. It demanded $1 million and was signed "J. Hawker," which authorities interpret as a variation of the term "Jayhawker" used to describe guerrillas and looters after the Civil War.

The letter said in part: "The extent of damages resulting from the demolition of five of your power line towers Wednesday night is incidental. Our intent is to either collect $1 million or to make you people wish to hell we had."

Hodel said he believed the only motive of the extortionist is money. "There are no political overtones to the letter," he said.

The extortionist set no deadline for complying with the demand but told the power administration to show it was ready to pay by placing classified ads in three newspapers, two of them in California.

Parent-Teacher Day Planned By Logan Elm SD

Following the provisions of the Ohio Code, the Logan Elm Board of Education has provided time for a parent-teacher conference day Oct. 28.

The parents are asked to indicate on the letter sent home with each student the most convenient time for them to attend a conference. The teacher will then confirm the time for each conference.

All parents of students from Kindergarten through the 12th grade are urged to respond to this request. This includes parents with children in the Laurelville, Saltcreek, Washington, Pickaway, McDowell and Logan Elm High School.

Special Prosecutor's Office Quietly Winding Up Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — With attention focused on the Watergate cover-up trial, the special prosecutor's office is quietly winding up its business and preparing to close its doors next spring.

Additional charges probably will be brought, particularly for violations of campaign contribution laws, and there will be a final report, but the cover-up trial clearly represents the climax of the work of the unique office created to deal with the Watergate scandal.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has submitted his resignation, effective Friday. In his letter to Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, Jaworski said he felt the major work of his office had been completed.

In addition, sources within his office have indicated that most of the investigations under way are close to completion.

There had been some discussion within the prosecutor's office months ago about winding up everything but the campaign contribution law investigations.

The award of ambassadorships in return for large contributions, the possibility that Nixon fund raisers had used tactics that would be regarded as extortion, and still other corporate contributions were considered areas that might require another year of investigation.

But for reasons still not clear, the probes are being wound up much more quickly.

Since Archibald Cox built the staff in May 1973, the special prosecutors have brought charges against 44 individuals and 15 corporations.

The individuals include former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, men who wielded unequalled and unquestioned power during the first Nixon administration. All three are defendants in the cover-up case.

Ehrlichman already has been convicted of violating the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, a charge stemming from his supervision of the so-called White House plumbers unit.

Jaworski is leaving the prosecutor's office with his reputation enhanced. Whether it remains unblemished will depend in part on the outcome of the cover-up trial and the final report his office is obligated to submit to the American people.

Jaworski already has said he could not include all his office learned about Nixon's Watergate role now that President Ford has barred bringing charges against the former President.

But he left one possibility open: he invited Congress to expand his mandate, to require that the final report include the full story of Watergate.

Swiss Nix Ouster Of Foreigners

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss voters have decisively rejected a proposal to deport 540,000 foreigners in the next three years.

Nearly 70 per cent of those voting in Sunday's referendum rejected the constitutional amendment. The vote was 1,689,870 to 878,739. A similar proposal four years ago came much closer to success, with a 46 per cent affirmative vote.

The amendment was proposed by a right-wing group called the National Action Against Over-Foreignization of People and Homeland. It would have set a limit of 500,000 foreigners living in Switzerland by Jan. 1, 1978.

This would have meant expulsion of 540,000 non-Swiss, most of them farmhands, unskilled industrial laborers, street cleaners, dishwashers and waiters. About two-thirds of these are Spaniards and Italians attracted by better pay than they can get at home.

Although Switzerland has no unemployment, and the migrant laborers do the lower-paying work the Swiss won't do, there is a growing tendency to blame the foreigners for inflation, crime, pollution, overcrowding in the cities and other problems. Seventeen per cent of the 6.3 million people in the country are foreigners, the highest proportion in the world. In addition to the migrant laborers, Geneva is the headquarters of numerous international organizations, and the country is a traditional haven for political refugees.

Police Check Theft Reports

Circleville Police are investigating two theft reports received during the final day of Pumpkin Show.

Charles Lawson, 604 S. Scioto St., said an Audio tape player valued at $125, two speakers and eight stereo tapes were taken from his car while it was parked in front of his house.

The unit was ripped from its bracket.

EVERY CUT GUARANTEED TO BE TENDER AND DELICIOUS OR YOUR MONEY GLADLY REFUNDED

"...Blaming the supermarket for high prices is like blaming the thermometer for the heat."

That's true. It takes a lot of people to bring food to supermarket shelves. The price you pay covers growing, processing, transporting, warehousing and handling. It all starts on the farm, maybe thousands of miles from here. Bad weather or rising costs of gasoline, fertilizer, or the beginning of the season... the cost of the farm product. And this is just from the farm, raw food must be shipped to the processor... then to warehouses... and finally to the supermarket. Transportation accounts for about 10¢ of each dollar shop-pers spend for food at the supermarket! The companies that peel, slice, wash, can, freeze and package food also have faced higher costs... from raw products to wages to plants and equipment. And it's all passed on to your supermarket. The price your store charges is based on all these costs, plus our own operating expenses. Only about 7/10 of 1%—or 7¢ on a $10 grocery order—is not profit for the supermarket. We know you are concerned about inflation and food prices, and so are we. We'll keep on bringing you quality food at prices as low as we can. But remember that we're at the end of the line—so don't blame the thermometer for the heat!
